Nixon Reassures Israelites Mideast Fears Unwarranted

College Leaders Told To 'Take Command'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has given the Israeli government his personal assurance that entering Middle East talks, as he proposed, would not endanger Israel's military position.

Nixon told a television-radio news conference at the Century Plaza Hotel Thursday night that he hopes Israel will join Egypt and Jordan in accepting his proposal for a 90-day cease-fire while negotiations move forward.

Acknowledging that some Israeli officials fear their enemies would take military advantage of a cease-fire, Nixon declared:

"If there is a cease-fire, a natural proposition connected with that, a condition with that, is that there will be a military standstill during that period."

The Israeli cabinet has been sharply divided over whether to accept the proposal with members of a right-wing party threatening to resign if it is.

Fielding 18 questions in 29 minutes, Nixon also told the audience of Washington and California newsmen:

—The administration will send federal officials into the South to promote full school desegregation when help is asked. "We are not going to have forced policy in this area," he said. "Our policy is one of cooperation rather than coercion."

—The economy will be "moving upward in the last half of 1970" with inflation being cooled. However, he said, he may have to veto some popular bills if Congress appropriates more than he wants and a request for higher taxes would be used as a last resort to keep the federal budget under control.

He believes his order sending U.S. ground troops into Cambodia increased the prospects for a negotiated peace. He said Washington and Saigon are in agreement on negotiation policy.

The chief executive urged Congress to move quickly to pass his environmental protection measures and, referring to the smog blanket that covered much of the East Coast this week, said: "It was perhaps fortunate in a way that the East Coast saw this problem in such a massive manner. Now we realize that we don't have much time left."

Nixon was asked about the report, made public earlier in the week, in which his special advisers on campus unrest said Nixon had not been paying enough attention to the problems of students and racial minorities.

The President countered that, while the federal government will do what it can to ease campus unrest, "it is a problem which college administrators and college faculties must face up to." He said he thought it "very short-sighted" for university presidents and professors "to put the blame for all the problems of the universities on the government."

Nixon also was asked about statements by his campus advisers that government should recognize the reality of fears of repression among students and minority groups.

"We do not believe in repression," the President said. "It is not a government policy."

His questioner had referred to some of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's public comments, to which Nixon replied:

"I, of course, do not accept the proposition that the vice president represses people. It seems to me that people are very free in speaking up about the vice president. Many of them do to me."

At several points, Nixon expressed hope for at least limited success in the strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union in Vienna. He said they were aimed at limitation of arms rather than disarmament.

And, responding to a question from a Los Angeles newsman in this city with a heavy population of Mexican-Americans, Nixon said increasing job opportunities for Mexican-Americans was a "high priority" administration objective.

Israel Agrees To Cease-Fire

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel accepted today the United States peace proposal for the Middle East and agreed to a three-month cease-fire with the Egyptians.

A government announcement said Israel had decided "to subscribe to the latest peace initiative of the government of the United States and to appoint, at the appropriate time, a representative for peace negotiations without prior conditions" under auspices of U.N. Middle East envoy Gunnar Jarring of Sweden.

Egypt and Jordan have already accepted the plan, but Palestinian guerrilla organizations have split on the proposal with the principal commando outfits vowing to continue the fight.

The Israeli Cabinet reached agreement at its fourth meeting on the U.S. proposal, which encountered strong opposition from rightist elements who had threatened to quit Prime Minister Golda Meir's coalition government if it accepted the American proposal.

The Israeli announcement said the decision on the cease-fire was reached after "taking into account the clarifications provided by the government of the United States."

This was taken to mean Washington's reported reassurances to Israel that it would continue to maintain the Middle East balance of power and prevent any of the warring parties from reaping military advantage from any cease-fire.

Earthquake Toll Known To Be 175

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Rescue workers in northeast Iran today found five more villages devastated by earthquakes Thursday, and the toll of known dead rose to 175.

As the rescuers combed the rubble and extended their search across the vast area struck by the quake, government spokesmen said the toll probably would go higher.

Officials of the Red Lion and Sun, the Iranian Red Cross, said so far 451 seriously injured persons had been found in 31 villages devastated by the quake.

Many of the injured were trapped for hours in the ruins of their homes. They were flown to field hospitals.

While troops and social workers searched around the clock for survivors and bodies, helicopters dropped food, medical supplies and tents in remote areas.

Red Space Bomb Answer To U.S. Missile System?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russian space bomb that orbited the globe this week is seen by some strategists as the Soviet Union's answer to America's development of an antiballistic missile system.

There is no defense against the space bomb, Pentagon officials said, and the Soviets are believed to have already deployed the weapon.

In announcing the test, the Defense Department warned, "This is further evidence of the continuing momentum of the Soviet development and test program for strategic weapons."

The main response to a space bomb would be the U.S. strategic mix of land and sea missiles and aircraft.

The Safeguard antimissile system, satellite monitoring and new long-range radars all bear on the space bomb but are still under development.

The Soviets tested their space bomb, or Fractional Orbital Bombardment System—FOBS—vehicle Tuesday, the Pentagon said.

It was launched from the Soviet spaceport of Tyuratam, Kazakhstan, traveling eastward across Mongolia, Red China, Japan, Chile, Argentina, East Africa and back to the Aral Sea recovery area.

The orbit was as high as 130 miles and as low as 90 miles. The whole trip took 90 minutes. The payload, if any, was not disclosed by the Pentagon.

U.S. planners look at FOBS as a way for Russia to get a sneak shot at American defenses. It is seen as coming at the United States from over the South Pole, eluding the extensive radar warning network already aimed northward for ICBM attack detection. The best use for FOBS, they say, would be a general target such as a B52 air base, or, possibly cities. It is considered less nearly accurate than ICBMs and therefore worthless against such pinpoint targets as U.S. Minuteman silos.

FOBS would descend from its orbit on command, delivering a warhead in the three-megaton range.

Without the new radar or satellite detection, FOBS would cut U.S. nuclear attack warnings to about three minutes. The new long-distance surveillance, however, would provide an hour-long view of FOBS from launch to its first opportunity to impact, making it virtually worthless, planners say.

Disposition Of Nerve Gas 'Jittery' Subject

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several congressmen have charged the Army ignored international law in devising plans to dump more than 3,000 tons of obsolete nerve gas rockets into the Atlantic Ocean.

Other legislators complained the Army had given too short notice of its elaborate plan to transport the dangerous cargo overland before sending it to the bottom of the Atlantic Aug. 10.

In Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, acting Prime Minister Arthur Hanna said, "I've heard nothing of this. If it's in any way dangerous to either fish life or human life, we will be making the strongest protest to the U.S. government."

Encased In Concrete

The Army announced Thursday two trains will start from Anniston, Ala., and Lexington, Ky., carrying the steel and concrete encased weapons to Sunny Point arsenal near Southport, N.C.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said the United States is obligated by the 1958 Geneva Convention on the law of the sea to consult with international committees before disposing of potentially hazardous pollutants in international waters.

Pell, chairman of the oceanography subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the 10-day notice did not provide time for adequate consultation.

No Consultation Time

Rep. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., said the United Nations was not consulted before Thursday's Pentagon announcement and simultaneous briefings for members of Congress and governors of the affected states.

But Army officials said the State Department had been notified, and that clearance on elaborate safety precautions had been obtained from the Interio Department and the surgeon general.

At the North Carolina arsenal, the nerve gas will be loaded onto an old Marine barge, towed out to sea and scuttled with explosives in 1,600 feet of water 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Gov Kirk Angered

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk said, "I don't believe any briefing in the world will convince me that the gas should be dumped off our coast."

Reps. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., William C. Cramer, R-Fla., and J. Hebert Burke, R-Fla., sent telegrams to Laird asking for consultations before further action. Rogers also called for a congressional hearing.

Scientists reportedly have cautioned the Army that unless the rockets are destroyed, they could explode from pressure of the concrete and steel in which they are encased.

The Army said the overland shipments will avoid major population centers.

The Pentagon said the exact routes will not be disclosed in the interest of security.

Blue Shield Given 3.7 Rate Hike OK

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Insurance Bureau today denied a Blue Shield application for 7.7 per cent average rate increase in regular subscriber contracts.

But it allowed an average 3.7 per cent rate increase.

Insurance Commissioner Russell E. Van Hooser termed the proposed rate hike "excessive."

"Although Blue Shield is still in a deficit financial condition," the commissioner said, "projections indicate that during the fourth period the financial condition should stabilize."

At the same time, the insurance bureau approved a Blue Cross rate increase of 3.8 per cent for regular subscriber members.

There will be no increase in the rates for senior citizens, the bureau said.

Repair Funds

WASHINGTON D.C. (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has awarded $2.2 million to Detroit Metropolitan Airport to fund repairs on two runways and installation of new runway lights.

The federal grant will be matched by local funds, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said in announcing the allocation.

Foresee Fight On Wage-Price Control Plans

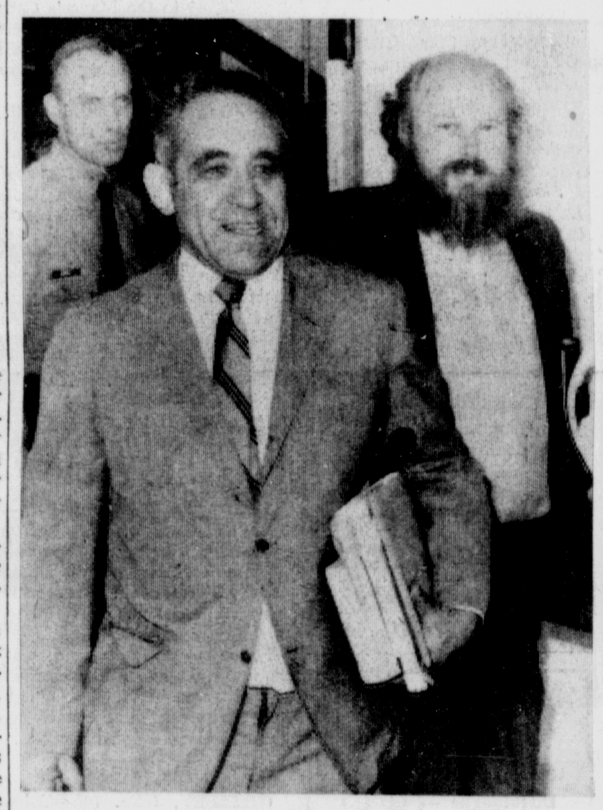

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members squared off today for a bitter partisan battle over giving President Nixon standby power to freeze prices and wages temporarily—authority he says he neither needs nor wants.

Republicans contend the proposal is a purely political one designed to harass the administration.

Some of them are mounting a counterattack—an amendment that would put the freeze into effect by congressional action, without involving the President. They argue that if the Democratic Congress thinks controls are needed, it should take the responsibility—and any blame—for them.

Democratic House leaders, however, are backing the standby version. Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Commitee, principal sponsor of the measure, said he does not think controls are needed at present, but, "I'm willing to give the President a shotgun in the corner to use if he has to."

The provision was written by the Banking Committee, divided on party lines, into a bill to extend the Defense Production Act, authority for the government to control defense-important materials and facilities. The act expires at midnight, but the House passed Thursday a 15-day extension to allow time for both branches of Congress to complete action on regular extension legislation.

Black Leaders Want 'Gangs' Eliminated

CHICAGO (AP) — Black leaders on Chicago's South Side have called for adults to rid their communities of the Black P Stone Nation street gangs, which they claim have taken hold of their neighborhoods through terror, intimidation and murder.

Three Negro ministers vowed Thursday to curtail activities of the black street gang after one clergyman's church caught fire in the early morning.

Authorities said the fire, which did an estimated $25,000 damage to Woodlawn Mennonite Church, was caused by arson.

The Rev. Curtis E. Burrell Jr., the church's pastor who previously had criticized the gang, charged that the Stones were responsible and that members of the gang had fired into his South Side home and into the church, narrowly missing him.

"The truth is out," he told a news conference. "It is time to rid ourselves of the black pimps and white hustlers who kidnap our children. It is time for black adults and black men to stand up."

For a long time the Black P Stone Nation—A conglomerate of Negro street gangs the largest of which is the Blackstone Rangers—has declared that it "runs the neighborhoods."

The group's name comes from Blackstone Avenue, a South Side thoroughfare. Some gang members say the P stands for peace others say for people, while others say it has no significance.

Some members are as young as 9 years old and most are armed.

There have been numerous complaints that the gang terrorizes youngsters into joining and paying dues and that members extort money from neighborhood merchants.

GOP Rules Out Direct Crime Funds To Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has rejected the notion that federal crime-fighting funds should be channeled directly to the cities.

Atty. Gen John N. Mitchell said Thursday funds for law-enforcement assistance programs will continue going to the states, whose officials, he said, are in the best position to determine where the money is needed most.

Mitchell, appearing before a Senate subcommittee, rejected the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that states be bypassed—at least temporarily—to get the money directly to the cities.

The attorney general supported additional block grants to the states as provided in the 1968 crime-control law which established the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under his jurisdiction.

Under the act, states are required to develop plans for improvement of their systems of criminal justice, including police forces, courts and correctional institutions, before receiving federal grants.

Kennedy, in urging direct grants to cities, said hundreds of municipalities are willing to pay ther share of anti-crime programs and Congress is willing to appropriate the money.

He asked, "Why we don't get about it" rather than wait for the development of statewide plans? He suggested this be done for at least two or three years "while the states are getting the wrinkles out of their programs."

Investigators Claim:

Speculators Reaped Huge Profits Selling Slum Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators have uncovered evidence that a federal program designed to help poor people buy homes has been used by speculators to make fat profits on slum housing.

The investigators said FHA appraisers have approved substandard housing as eligible for the program where the government subsidizes interest payments so the poor can afford to buy homes. Housing involved is supposed to be decent, safe and sanitary.

Romney Notified

In a letter to Housing Secretary George Romney, House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., charged that the evidence raises the spectre of "a national scandal of the most sordid type."

A spokesman for Romney said Patman's letter had been received but the secretary would have no comment until after the charges were studied.

The investigation was carried out in two cities—Washington and Philadelphia—by the staffs of Patman's committee and the House Select Committee on Crime.

"If these two cities are typical of the rest of the nation, then the operation of the program is nothing short of scandalous," said an investigations summary attached to the Patman letter.

The summary said that more than 120 houses sold under the FHA 235 program had been checked in Washington and reports on 13 houses in Philadelphia were attached.

"In both Philadelphia and Washington there has been visual inspection of these homes," the report said. "They are slums. Plaster is cracked and falling, wallpaper is peeling, wiring is faulty, wood is rotten, plumbing is corroded and leaking, furnaces have been condemned, ceilings have fallen in, roofs leak, hot water tanks are bad, rats, etc., etc."

Standards Must Be Met

"It is our understanding that where existing housing is sold, minimum FHA standards must be met. Moreover, FHA appraisers are supposed to check these houses for defects and to order and inspect repairs before approval. Obviously this has not been done."

In one example in Southeast Washington, Banking Committee investigators checked a house which had been purchased by a speculator for $9,000 and sold four months later under the FHA program for $17,500.

24 Code Violations

"Housing inspector found 24 housing code violations—peeling paint, missing plaster, holes in walls, no cranks to open windows," the report said. "Defective door lock, missing guard rail for porch steps and defective plumbing."

They also reported, "In one case where a furnace has been condemned, a homeowner has no idea where she will obtain the necessary funds to heat her house next winter. She has several small children. In another case, gas and electricity has been shut off until the poor homeowner makes repairs that he cannot afford and which should have been made before FHA approved the sale."

Taxes Proposed On Lead Additives In U.S. Gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has stressed a $1.6 billion tax on lead additives in gasoline as a means of cutting down on worsening air pollution and raising needed federal funds.

The tax on lead additives was one of three revenue-raising proposals the administration sent to Congress Thursday. It came as a blanket of smog covered New York City and much of the East Coast.

Other proposals included speeding up payment of gift and estate taxes and delaying scheduled reductions in excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls.

C&NW In U.S. Court:

Judge Finds Dust Nuisance Persists

MARQUETTE — The Chicago & North Western Railway has created a dust pollution problem from which several hundred residents of Escanaba are entitled to injunctive relief.

This is the conclusion of Chief U.S. District Court Judge W. Wallace Kent of Kalamazoo after a two-day hearing which ended here at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

The C&NW Railway was represented by Walter Hanson and Douglas Vielmetti of the legal firm of Clancy, Hanson and Vielmetti of Ishpeming; and the plaintiffs legal counsel is Atty. Nino Green of Escanaba.

To File Briefs

Judge Kent indicated that while the plaintiffs are entitled to some relief from the dust problem, no injunction would be issued until the attorneys for both the plaintiffs and the Railroad filed briefs. This would mean that the problem which the Judge found to exist may continue another two months before any action is taken by the Court.

The Chicago & North Western began handling pelletized iron ore at its new Escanaba Terminal on Feb. 27, 1969. Almost immediately, huge clouds of dust were stirred into the air by the equipment used in the handling process, and since that time winds have repeatedly carried the dust to the homes and properties of people residing on the north side of Escanaba.

Although the Railroad has taken some steps to curtail the problem, and has promised a permanent solution by the end of the year, Judge Kent found that a nuisance situation persists.

Reform Needed?

Commenting on the situation, Atty. Green, of the law firm of Green and Casselman, representing the residents of North Escanaba said:

"Our clients have taken their complaints to both city and county government, to the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, and to both the State and Federal Courts. In each instance the validity of their complaints has been acknowledged. In each instance, relief has either been denied, delayed or has been inadequate to have an meaningful affect upon the activities of the Railroad."

"As a result," Green continued, "it is becoming increasingly more difficult for me to persuade these people that our laws in this area provide justice. A private individual can be jailed for having a defective muffler on his car. A corporation, on the other hand, can deluge a major residential area with filth and dirt for more than 18 months, destroying the peaceful existence of hundreds of citizens, and no relief is provided. Somewhere along the line, we need drastic reform."

Called Frustrating

Speaking specifically of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, Green observed that the Commission had all the authority and power necessary to correct the situation and impose meaningful restrictions upon the activities of the Railroad until a permanent solution is implemented.

He said "there have been at least four hearings that I know of in the last year. On each occasion, citizens of Escanaba traveled to Lansing to make clear to the Commission the nature and extent of the problem and the manner in which it affects their lives. The recordings that I have of these hearings reflect an appalling study in sheer frustration."

Green concluded that such agencies as the Air Pollution Control Commission must be made more responsive to the problems of people.

"Corporate profits," he stated, "cannot be allowed to override the right of citizens to live decently in a clean environment. The shortcomings of individual efforts to curtail pollution through private lawsuits are obvious. We need State and Federal legislation and enforcement that will remove the profit from those activities of industry which degrade and destroy our environment."

Varnum's 'Map' On State Maps Brings Rebuke

Michael J. Nelson of Escanaba, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 107th district, today criticized incumbent Rep. Charles Varnum for Varnum's use of maps printed by the State Highway Commission as "campaign handouts.'

The maps Nelson referred to, printed with state tax funds and labeled "for free distribution only," were distributed in Escanaba last week during a downtown sales promotion — with the state representative's picture and seal attached.

"I consider Rep. Varnum's use of these maps for campaigning an indirect misuse of public funds," Nelson said. "Since these maps have been printed at public expense, it seems clear to me that Rep. Varnum is letting the people of the state of Michigan pick up a portion of his campaign tab."

Nelson continued: "I have no objection to the free distribution of these maps as a public service, but I think we should keep the political advertising off of them. I'm sure the maps were never intended to be vehicles through which politicians could buy votes.

"I've had to foot the bill for my own campaign so far, and I think Rep. Varnum should do likewise," Nelson said.

Borman May Get Top NASA Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut Frank Borman, commander of the first manned spacecraft to circle the moon, is a front-runner in capital speculation about who will be named boss of the nation's space agency.

His name is cropping up frequently in official circles as among those who might be named by President Nixon to succeed Thomas O. Paine, who resigned Tuesday to return to private business.

Borman, 42, was at President Nixon's side during the Apollo 11 moon landing flight and accompanied the President to watch the splashdown of the spacecraft in the Pacific. After retiring as an active astronaut, Borman was field director for the orbiting space station program — the next phase in America's space program.

Research Reveals Tarnished Past Of Historic Schooner

MENOMINEE (AP) — Exactly one year after it was winched muddy and dripping from the depths of Green Bay, the Alvin B. Clark rocks at dockside in the Menominee River, still seaworthy but with its reputation slightly tarnished.

The scuba divers who raised the ship are more sure than ever that their vessel is the Alvin B. Clark, which sank in a brief but wicked storm in 1864.

But their work over the winter — both on restoring the ship and digging into its past — has shown that the Clark didn't always keep the best of company.

Lumber Runner

The skeleton in the Clark's closet is that the 110 foot, two masted schooner apparently was involved in the theft of lumber from federal land and hauled contraband down the lakes for sale in Chicago.

The Clark now is the main attraction in Menominee's River Park. Much of the rigging has been restored and a small museum has been built alongside.

Researchers Dick Boyd and his wife, Sue, of Madison, who have poured through archives and musty papers, found some evidence that the Clark was used by a trio of lake captains engaged in shipping stolen lumber from upper Lake Michigan to Chicago.

Escaped Arrest

"There were a number of lumber barons in the area at that time," Boyd said. "One of the ways they built their fortunes was to illegally cut timber on federal lands, run it through their mills, then ship it to Chicago for sale.

"The thievery had been going on in the 1840s and '50s. Things started to come to a head in 1852 when a couple of deputies tried to take possession of a stolen lumber raft and got shot.

"Well, a federal timber agent named I. W. Willard and a federal marshal out of Chicago started to bear down. They seized quantities of lumber and arrested three captains, Capt. Higgie, Francis Higgie, I believe, and . . . Capt. Alvin B. Clark and a Capt. Hammond.

"Clark was the one who had the ship built and named after himself. These three were primarily responsible for carting the lumber.

"For many years, they had a running battle with this lumber agent. He'd arrest them and they'd escape. Using the lumber industry's influence both up north and in Chicago, they finally got the timber agent arrested on charges of false arrest. . ."

Built In 1847

The Clark was built in 1847 at Truago, now Trenton, Mich. It sank June 29, 1864, in Green Bay, while headed for Oconto to pick up a load of lumber.

"It's funny," said Boyd. "We've got the weather reports for that day and it was beautiful until 5 p.m. Then what must have been a small tornado ripped through and laid her over. We've got reports of trees downed and buildings damaged on Chambers Island and along that part of the Michigan shore."

The Clark sank between the Upper Peninsula and Chambers Island.

Ottawa Forest Recreation Job Contracts Let

WASHINGTON — Senator Philip A. Hart and Congressman Phil Ruppe announced the awarding of a contract today for the construction of the Clark Lake Campground and Snap Jack-Long Lake Roads in Sylvania, a part of the Ottawa National Forest.

The contract was awarded to the South Range Construction Co. of South Range.

Hart and Ruppe also announced the awarding of another contract to McMahon Brothers, Iron River, for the construction of a camp ground road and parking lot at the Black River Harbor, also in the Ottawa National Forest.

Africa To Escanaba

BIRDS EYE VENEER CO. received a carload of logs — all the way from Africa. Some logs are so big they put a strain on the loading equipment. The wood is commonly known as Mozambique or Ovagkol (the botanical name is Guibourtia-Ehi) and the species originates from Ghana and the Ivory Coast and compares to walnut in grain and texture when finished. Eight logs filled the railroad car, the largest was 32 inches in diameter and 43 feet long. Gus Gustafson is on the car as a log is unloaded. (Daily Press Photo)

STEAMING AND SCRAPING of the logs followed their unloading. Joe Winters and Wally Denoo handle this job, preparatory to processing by Birds Eye Veneer Co. that will flat slice the log into veneer of 1/28th inch thickness for the furniture industry. There is over 2,000 board feet in a 43-foot log and it weighs an estimated 16,000 pounds. The wood is growing in popularity with the furniture industry and 20 separate groupings of Mozambique were shown at the Furniture Show in High Point, N. C. (Daily Press Photo)

Close Race Predicted Between Lenore, Huber

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lenore Romney is nearing the end of a Republican Senator primary election campaign in which she once was heavily favored but which now appears to be a close race.

Her opponent is State Sen. Robert Huber, a long-time Romney foe and self-styled conservative from the Detroit suburb of Troy. The "Huber wing" of the Michigan Republican party is small, and the primary election next Tuesday once was considered a sure thing for Mrs. Romney, a former Michigan First Lady.

"All Bets Off"

But now some political observers say they would not bet on either candidate.

Huber's campaign has included reminding voters of unpopular gubernatorial deeds of Mrs. Romney's husband. "I voted 'no' on the Romney state income tax," proclaims a Huber billboard, strategically around the corner from a Lenore billboard in Lansing. And Huber's campaign slogan is "You can't brainwash experience"—a reference to Romney's famous statement that he was brainwashed about conditions in Vietnam.

Fears Mistakes

Romney now is secretary of Housing and Urban Development, and Mrs. Romney says he is "afraid every mistake he ever made in office will be placed on my back now."

Her campaign literature omits her husband's picture, and her campaign buttons use only her first name.

Until recently she publicly ignored Huber's candidacy, and only last week broke her silence on her opponent. Her campaign also incorporates 30-minute television commercials during prime time.

She cites her contact with the Nixon administration in asserting: "My qualifications are so much broader than those of a legislator in Lansing that it's facetious to compare them."

Mother Of Four

A mother of four and grandmother of 15, Mrs. Romney says campaigning is tiring. But she has gained three pounds during the campaign, pushing her weight to 103. She has the primary endorsement of the Detroit Free Press and Panax Corp., which publishes six daily and 17 weekly papers across Michigan.

Huber, who chaired a special Senate committee investigating campus disorders in the state, says he would be of "appreciable service" to the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

Backs President

He says also that he is the only Michigan candidate for the U.S. Senate who has pledged to support the President in efforts to end the Vietnam war. Mrs. Romney supported U.S. involvement in Cambodia, but withdrew that support when Nixon failed to halt all air missions over Cambodia by June 30.

The victor in the primary is far from home free because of the proven vote-getting power of the Democratic opponent, two-term incumbent Philip A. Hart.

A victory for Mrs. Romney could expand the Romney influence in Washington and boost the image of Gov. William Milliken, who laid his leadership on the line last March to win for her the party's "consensus" designation for the primary.

Defeat, however, could topple the political structure created in the state by the former governor.

Service To Youth

The Youth Services Program being conducted at K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base for disadvantaged youths from throughout the Upper Peninsula is "a lot more successful than we ever thought it would be," according to Peter Rwyer, director of children's services for the Marquette County Juvenile Court.

It fact, it is reported that the program here is now rated the finest of its kind in the United States — even though there are similar programs at a number of military installations throughout the country and even though the program here is in its first year of operation.

Started early last month, the 10-week program is now in the beginning of its eighth week — far enough along for some accurate evaluations to be made.

Twenty youths between the ages of 15 and 18 are enrolled in the program each week, so that by the end of the summer about 200 will have taken part in the encampments.

The idea is to expose them to a new environment in an attempt to foster positive motivation. Air base personnel and facilities are used to provide this new environment, and those in charge of the program believe that one of the most important keys to its success is the personal contact the boys have with your airmen.

By the time the program has ended, 1,000 youth days will have been logged. These are days that will have been spent in constructive experiences instead of being days that might have been wasted on the streets.

Those enrolled in the program live in the airmen's dormitories, stand room inspections and eat in dining halls on the base. Their activities are supervised by a camp director and four paid civilian counselors, as well as volunteer military counselors. They are given tours of the air base, participate in a wide range of athletic activities, take part in group discussions and view films on such subjects as drug abuse. Each camper is given a thorough dental and medical examination.

★ ★ ★

During the first seven weeks of the program, 140 youths have been enrolled. They have come from all but three of the Upper Peninsula's 15 counties, Alger County has sent three campers, Baraga seven, Chippewa 14, Delta 20, Gogebic three, Houghton 15, Iron five, Luce six, Marquette 45, Menominee eight, Ontonogan seven and Schoolcraft seven.

Of the 140, only three youths were returned to their homes for personal reasons before completing the five-day encampment.

As a measure of the success of the program, Mr. Rwyer said at least 60 per cent of the youths said they would like to spend another week at the air base. Some youths already have requested permission to return to the base next year. Several "graduates" have sent letters of appreciation to camp officials.

Mr. Dwyer emphasized that some seasoned delinquent youths were included among those enrolled in the program and that they seemed to benefit greatly from it.

"We've had excellent cooperation from the air base and from the directors and the staff," Mr. Rwyer said. The camp director is Robert Ortegal, until recently assistant basketball coach at Northern Michigan University. The counselors have been Michael Bee, Stephen Longshore and Gerald Girard, all students at Northern, and Donald Evans, a recent MSU graduate.

Heading the program is Lynn Coleman of Marquette, president of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railway and chairman of U. P. Youth Services, Inc.

The encampment costs $50 per boy. This covers costs of meals and salaries of the civilian staff. The money is raised by donations from Upper Peninsula business firms, service groups and individuals. The air base, of course, contributes its facilities and volunteer counselors.

In order to finance the remainder of the program, some additional contributions are needed. They should be sent to U. P. Youth Services, Box 932, Marquette.

Daring Document

Not in recent memory has so daring a document emerged from Russia as the anti-Communist proclamation issued by a group called the "Democratic Movement."

Since Communism ruthessly was imposed on Russia, there have been various underground resistance movements. Rarely, however, have they been so bold and assertive as this particular group of dissidents.

Here is their proclamation, a scathing denouncement of 50 years of Communist rule:

"Unemployment has been converted into compulsory labor.

"A tolerable level of poverty amid affluence has been supplanted by an unbearable poverty that threatens life.

"Crime not only continues to grow, but crime of persons against persons has been augmented by crimes of the state against invidduals.

"Racial discrimination has been transformed into political discrimination.

"The crisis of underr- duction has been replaced by the crisis of overproduction.

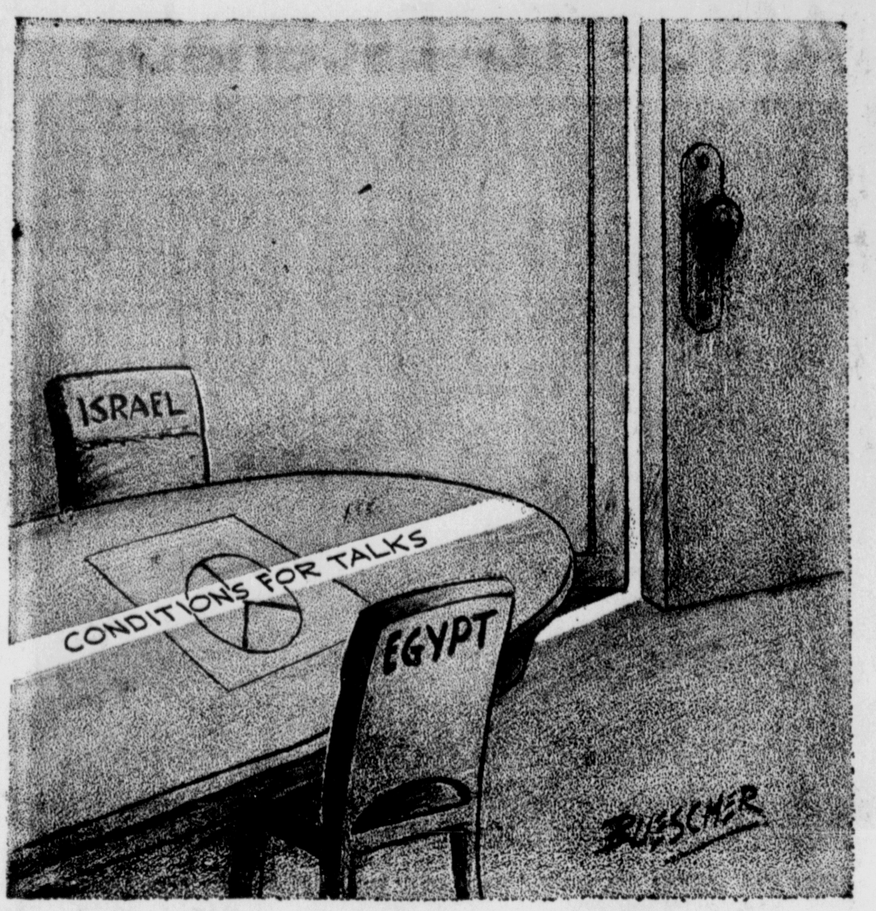

"Capitalistic monopoly is converted into a single monopoly of state capitalism.

"Economic expansionism has been replaced by military-political expansionism.

"Capitalistic exploitation has turned into governmental exploitation."

Unlike other dissident groups which have been asking for relatively minor reforms, the "Democratic Movement" candidly calls for the overthrow of one-party, Communist rule in Russia. It insists that the party structure, holding as it does all political, economic and social power, be dismantled.

In the Kremlin"s response to this courageous group of Russians, or the lack of it, will be found a glimpse into Russia's future.

Secretary Rogers: Great Poker Player

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The other day we quoted the statement attributed to Bismarck that luck favors drunks, fools and the United States of America. And now that Nasser has said he is willing to accept U. S. peace proposals for the Middle East, it could be that Secretary of State William P. Rogers is about to become the latest lucky beneficiary of a most whimsical heavenly dispensation.

On the other hand, Bill Rogers may be the cleverest man we have around. True enough, he looked like an idiot when he persuaded the Administration of which he has always seemed to be a rather distant part to hold back on the sales of those Phantom Jets to Israel. As any two-bit psychologist might have predicted, Rogers's attempt to behave in a civilized manner vis-a-vis the savage and Tartarly Kremlin only whetted the Soviet appetite in the Middle East. The Russians quickly moved the SAM-IIs and the SAM-IIIs to Cairo to block the capacity of the Israelis to fight a preventive war in the Egyptian skies. The Palestinian guerrilla bands grew steadily more vicious and more uncompromising.

The rumor went abroad that if Nixon ever did get around to sending the Phantom Jets to Israel the Libyans would forthwith toss the U. S. Occidental Oil interests into the Mediterranean and grab a huge American investment for themselves without offering compensation to anybody. And then somebody leaked the story in Washington that Israel had the atom bomb.

If the leak was purposeful, Bill Rogers could possibly have had somehting to do with it. And if the Israelis do have a deliverable nuclear missile, Rogers must have known it some time ago. Though it boggles the imagination to consider that Rogers, who seems so unasuming and so innocent, might have had the knowledge of an Israeli nuclear capacity up his sleeve all the time, he must, as Secretary of State, have access to secret intelligence. So we must entertain the proposition that he is one of our better poker players.

Does this account for the fact that just six days after the leak about an Israeli bomb both Nasser and the Soviets began saying mollifying things about meeting the terms of Roger's plan for a cease-fire in the Middle East?

Of course, there's many a slip between the cup and the lip, and we may have much backing and filling before anything tangible comes out of the Rogers diplomacy. But if the Israelis do have a nuclear capacity, they have the ability to carry Nasser's Egypt down with them to the grave in any war that threatens to end with the obliteration of Israel. The Aswan Dam, the Sphinx, the Pyramids, everything that represents or connotes Egypt, whether new or old, would disappear in a few blinding flashes if a bomb-possessing Israel is pushed to extremity.

If it is too startling to consider that Rogers is a great poker player, maybe the sudden softening in Cairo has been due to a direct decision on the part of Golda Meir and Moshe Dayan in Israel to leak the conjecture about the bomb. If this is the explanation, then Rogers is just a lucky beneficiary of Israeli sang froid. But if the Middle East crisis does simmer down, whether through a conference or a mere decision on two sides to call off the fighting, the Nixon Administration will get the credit for maneuvering through a difficult period. It won't be until Golda Meir and Moshe Dayan write their memoirs for posthumous release that we will know the real story.

The leak about the atom bomb happened, whether fortuitously or not, to coincide with the announcement of the big new oil find in the North Sea off the Norwegian coast. Betwen the two events Nasser and the rest of the Arab politicos must have been tearing their hair as they paced their bedrooms at night. What would it boot them to invade Israel, yea, even to the gates of Jerusalem, if, just before victory beckoned, a desperate Israeli air force were to drop the bomb on Cairo and Aswan? And how would the Russians and the Arabs stand to make anything from the expropriation of western oil properties if western Europe has its own plentiful supply from the North Sea?

It could be that the dice game in the Middle East has turned against the Soviet-Arab cabal. We shall see what we shall see.

Man Without Status Like Shell-Less Turtle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Is your status showing?

Some people pretend that they don't care about their status, but they are only kidding themselves.

A man without status in America today is like a turtle without a shell. He has no more social standing than a pelican at a convention of peacocks.

It isn't always easy to tell whether your own status is increasing or waning. However, you can be pretty sure your prestige rating is pretty high if:

You and the golf pro at your country club call each other by your first names.

The board of directors of your firm has asked you to sit for an oil portrait to be hung in the board room as an inspiration to them.

You now have three secretaries—two to look at and one homely one to do the work.

The U.S. Mint is considering putting your profile on a coin, and the U.S. Post Office has asked permission to issue a stamp celebrating a few of your minor achievements.

Your wife wouldn't dare address you any longer by a term more intimate than "mister."

You now have an English butler whom you refer to as "my man."

It is too much of a bore to go to the tailor to be measured for new suits. The tailor comes to your office.

Yep, you're batting fine in the big league of status if these things are true of you. On the other hand, your prestige has slipped nearly to the zero point if—

You carry a two-foot folding sheaf of credit cards in your wallet, but none of them is dated this year.

Evey shirt in your wardrobe —all four of them—is getting frayed at the collar.

When a street panhandler hits you up, he automatically lowers his asking price from a quarter to a nickel.

When you need money, you have to write away for help from one of your sons who is working his way through college.

The boss only nods when he meets you, because he is tired of confusing you with two other guys whom he is thinking of firing.

When you reach out your hand to pat your dog, he bites it because it no longer feeds him the kind of food he can eat and keep his self-respect.

SONIC BOOMS

LONDON (AP) — Environmental experts of all types will collaborate in compiling what British authorities call a monumental mass of evidence about the effects of sonic booms from airplaines flying faster than sound.

The British version of the Concorde, a supersonic commercial plane, will provide the data in test runs down the west side of the British Isles this summer.

Known as the Supersonic Bang Sub Committee, the group of experts will study everything from the effect of the sonic booms on ancient buildings to man himself.

A program of 50 supersonic runs has been scheduled for the Concorde over the next three years down an 800-mile corridor. The runs will gradually work up to a maximum speed of 1,400 miles an hour.

PUBLIC TOILET

Last Sunday because of the heat, my family and relatives went to Ludington Park for supper.

Of course, with small children in my group, they had to use the rest room. I have never in my life seen such a filthy rest room and I use the word loosely. There was no lighting except by the door, there was dirty paper all over the floor, and there was no tissue or towels to wipe hands with after using the dirty place.

Recently Escanaba was described as a clean city but the sight of that dirty rest room was sickening. I don't know whose job it is to keep this building clean, but a lot of people would be very appreciative if it was cleaned up and kept clean.

1. Pass. You can't fight City Hall. Obviously, there is no game when your hand is below average and partner announces minimum values by simply repeating his suit. Since only a part score is at issue, the only question to be resolved is where and at what level to stop.

If you were to bid two diamonds in an effort to find a better spot than two clubs, you would be forcing partner to bid again and this could lead to an even worse position if, for example, partner now bid three clubs. The odds favor North's having six clubs and it is best to leave well enough alone without climbing up the ladder unnecessarily.

2. Three notrump. Since you have an opening bid of your own facing an opening bid, and a hand highly suitable for notrump play, you must contract directly for game. Two notrump would not be forcing and might be passed.

3. Three clubs. Despite partner's signoff, there is still a chance for game, and it may well be that all North needs to stimulate him into bidding three notrump is a sign that you have the wherewithal to solidify the clubs. While North's two club bid puts his hand into the minimum class, still there are upper and lower levels even for signoff bids. Of course, North may pass three clubs—and, in most cases that is exactly what he will do.

4. Two diamonds. It is unusual to bid a three-card suit, but there are times when one must improvise bids because the circumstances call for them. There is simply no better or more descriptive bid available. You hope partner will now be able to show a heart guard by bidding two notrump, in which case you would of course be happy to raise him to three.

5. Three spades. Since this is a jump bid by responder, the opener must bid again. If North raises to four, that is the end of the auction. If North bids three notrump instead, you bid four clubs, since your distribution is unsuitable for notrump play. Partner is not permitted to pass at this point.

It is better to jump to three spades than to four clubs. The opportunity to play for a ten-trick game contract should not be lightly by-passed.

DANGEROUS DRIVING

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The day is coming when operation of autos under the influence of narcotics will be a problem similar to drunken driving, says a traffic court judge.

Judge Kyle T. Hubbard says blood tests soon will be required to ascertain whether a driver has taken drugs. He says the current practice of testing only the breath of a suspect is ineffective because it doesn't detect the presence of narcotics.

"To be honest with you, alcohol is right in there with the other drugs as a problem," the judge said. He called driving under the influence of alcohol "the main contact I have with drug abuse."

Net Teacher Taught Husband Old Lesson

Dear Ann Landers: I disagree with your conclusion that the husband who wanted his wife to have an affair with another man was trying to degrade her — or even the score because he had a guilty conscience.

I had a similar experience with my husband. A psychiatrist explained his behavior in quite a different way.

Allen (not his real name) had a disastrous marriage before we met. He caught his wife in bed with her tennis teacher. Allen was not only shocked but deeply hurt. His wife had always been cold to him, but the tennis teacher brought out a side of her he never dreamed existed.

After Allen and I married he was unable to perform sexually half the time. I pretended it didn't matter. He knew better. When he suggested I have an affair with another man (he even offered to hire someone), I was mortified. For years Allen nagged me but I refused, thinking he had to be deranged to suggest such a thing.

When Allen died last year, I went to pieces. My doctor explained that he was hoping to rebuild his shattered self esteem by providing me with something he felt he was depriving me of. I'm sorry now I didn't go along with him. Not for my sake, but for his. — Eleanor

Dear Eleanor: Obviously you have found comfort in this explanation. Another therapist might have come up with a different one — and either could have been right.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife is the most disorganized person in the world. She spends whole days doing absolutely nothing. Then suddenly she's a whirlwind of activity — rushing, dashing, yelling, "I have only two hands!" Etcetera.

After a solid week of goofing off, she decided to do EVERYTHING. She sets all the clocks in the house ahead 20 minutes, takes the receivers off the hooks and vows to make every second count. Lately she started something new. She drives to the shopping center with her cereal bowl and milk in her lap "to save time." Our car looks like a garbage truck — paper napkins, silverware and food all over the place.

This nut I'm married to wouldn't miss your column for anything. So please print my letter and give me the joy of watching her face when she runs into it. Thanks — Joe From Flint

Dear Joe: Here it is. Now — how's YOUR face?

Dear Ann Landers: Can a 5' 10" gal get out of a sports car without looking like a baby elephant doing a toe dance?

I'm dating three guys who own thimble-size cars. There must be a dignified way to get out of these baby buggies but I can't figure how to do it. Please come up with some advice — not only for me but for my suffering sisters. I'm not alone. — Tree Topper

Dear Topper: I'm 5' 2" and I feel like a moose when I try to climb out of a sports car.

You'll appear less cow-like if you move as close to the door as possible, keep your knees together, put your right leg out first and extend your hand to the gentleman who should be standing there — if he's a gentleman. (P.S. Be careful not to put all your weight into the grasp or you may flip the guy over on his back.)

Raspberry Ice Cream Is Superb

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Food markets have lots of flavors of ice cream, but there's one we haven't found around. Raspberry! And that's the ice cream we made at our house recently, using readily available frozen raspberries in syrup.

Great success! If you try this recipe—an easy one—we think you'll applaud it as much as our tasters did. This ice cream has the true taste of raspberries and long after it is gone, its perfection is likely to linger in your memory.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM — Raspberry is the luscious flavor and it's made with the readily available frozen berries.

Philadelphia Raspberry Ice Cream

2 packages (each 10 ounces) frozen raspberries in syrup, thawed
1 cup sugar
3 cups (1 ½ pints) heavy cream
5 cups milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ teaspoon red food coloring
Cracked ice
Rock salt, available at hardware stores

In a large fine-mesh strainer set over a large mixing bowl, turn the raspberries and their syrup. As syrup drips through, force through the berries to eliminate seeds and puree; discard seed residue.

To the raspberry syrup and puree, add sugar, cream, milk, vanilla and red food coloring.

Fit a 4-quart freezer can into the ice-cream freezer tub; insert dasher. Pour raspberry mixture into can. Cover can and attach cranking mechanism; latch securely. Pack tub with cracked ice and rock salt and freeze and ripen according to manufacturer's directions for hand-cranked or electric ice-cream freezer. (If you have an electric ice-cream freezer, you may want to follow the General Directions below, coordinating them with the manufacturer's directions for your particular freezer.)

Makes 3 to 3½ quarts.

Note: If you have a 2-quart ice-cream freezer, cut the ingredients in half.

General Directions For Electric Ice-Cream Freezer

Put 1 quart cracked ice into tub. Sprinkle ½ cup rock salt evenly over ice. Continue packing tub with cracked ice and rock salt in above proportions. Fill the tub almost to the top of the freezer can. Plug in freezer. As churning starts, level of ice will drop. Add more ice and salt in above proportions to keep level almost to top of can.

Churn about 20 minutes, adding ice and salt as needed; check drain hole occasionally to make certain it is clear, allowing brine to drain. Unlatch and remove cranking mechanism; wipe top and around top of can. Remove top and check to see if ice cream is frozen; it should hold its shape but be very soft. If not frozen enough, recover and continue to freeze another 3 to 5 minutes. When frozen, remove dasher and scrape off ice cream adhering to it. With a long-handled wooden spoon stir ice cream, blending firm and soft portions; pack down in can.

To ripen and firm ice cream in ice-cream freezer, cover can and plug hole in cover with a cork or a wad of plastic wrap. Tilt freezer and pour off water in tub through hole in side of freezer. Repack the freezer tub with more ice and salt using 1 cup salt for each quart of cracked ice. Pack ice cubes over top. Cover top with a folded heavy turkish towel or other heavy material. Let ripen for 2 hours.

To ripen and firm ice cream in home freezer: instead of repacking ice cream in ice-cream freezer, lift ice-cream can out of tub; cover and plug hole in cover with a cork or a wad of plastic wrap; place in home freezer to ripen. Or transfer ice cream to suitable containers, cover tightly and place in home freezer to ripen. Serve within 4 hours; left longer in home freezer, ice cream will lose its distinctive soft texture and harden too much.

hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you are one who buys expensive fiber artificial flowers such as roses, etc., let me give you a few cautions:

Never leave them where the sun shines upon them. This is what causes them to fade.

If you find the tops getting light and the centers dark, let your bathroom or shower get full of steam while the roses are sitting in there. I don't mean fog up the place, I just mean a minute amount of steam. After a while when the buds gather moisture, put a rubber band around the stems and hang them upside down so that the dye may run back into the tips again.

I am not speaking of plastic flowers, but the very fragile other kind.

Dear Heloise:

My neighbor said her doctor told her those slanted baby carriers are "worth their weight in antibiotics for respiratory illnesses" because the baby can be propped up.

I didn't have one but did improvise with my one-year-old. I lifted the head part of her mattress, put a firm pillow (one of those wedge-shaped foam pillows) under it.

This elevates her head just enough that she can sleep comfortably when she has a cold.

Local Women Attend National Indian Seminar

Two Indian women from the Upper Peninsula will participate in the first national seminar for Indian women.

Miss Bonnie Meshigaud, Rte. 1, Wilson and Mrs. Beatrice LaBine, Bruce Crossing, will attend the seminar Aug 2-8 at Fort Collins, Colo.

In addition, two home economists with the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University will attend as observers. They are Miss Ingrid Tervonen of Escanaba and Miss Nancy Burton of L'Anse.

The seminar is to cover such topics as the Indian's need for jobs, health, drug and alcohol use, youth counseling and activities, environment improvements, cleanup and landscaping.

The seminar is sponsored by the Country Women's Council. This group is part of the international group, the Associated Country Women of the World. In the U.S. the group is affiliated with the Cooperative Extension Service, part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

One aim of the seminar is to stimulate involvement of Indian women in community affairs and community interests in the plight of Indians, according to Mrs. Arvella Curtis, program leader with the Cooperative Extension Service at MSU. Mrs. Curtis said that such cooperation is already evident.

The CWC provides housing, meals and travel expenses for one delegate from Michigan. However, members of extension study groups and the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers contributed enough to finance a second delegate. Also, several counties have provided additional financial support so Michigan could send two home economists instead of one, Mrs. Curtis added.

Miss Burton and Miss Tervonen will share their observations of the seminar with other extension home economists in the state at a workshop later this year. Many home economists have study groups and other educational programs for Indian women.

This workshop is sanctioned by the International Cheerleading Foundation whose instructors are highly trained education majors currently enrolled in colleges and universities.

The workshop is a unique program in that it de-emphasizes cheerleading competition and trains the individual to be the best cheerleader-student leader.

Instruction is held in a campus atmosphere that gives the prepster a preview of university life. It is a healthy, safe, educational experience with much emphasis on personalized guidance.

Just a few of the things the girls will learn at the workshop are cheerleader technique, acrobatics and tumbling, partner system cheering, cheerleading regulations, precision practice techniques, song parodies and new chants.

Mr. Gildo Canale, director and coordinator of the workshop, northern Michigan University, has appointed Mrs. Inez Machalk, advisor from the North-Central Area Schools as residence assistant during the entire workshop.

DRUG ADDICTION HITS HOME

Drug addiction isn't somebody else's problem . . . it's ours. Each of us is a loser when the addict, ravaged by physical and emotional damage, driven by growing dependence on his drug, turns his potential as a person and a citizen into frantic scheming for ways to get his drug and pay for it. To support his habit, he almost certainly turns to crime. Most alarming—and of grave concern to parents—is the spread of drug addiction downward, into the classrooms of our high schools and even grade schools. There are no easy answers . . . but stopping drug addiction begins by honestly facing its problems. We all share the responsibility to educate ourselves and our children about the dangers of drugs. We must: learn the facts and fallacies about drugs. Set a good example. Don't misuse drugs . . . including alcohol and sleeping pills. Be prepared to understand and discuss drug problems. Support community efforts to combat drug addiction. By mobilizing sound knowledge, we can help to end drug addiction and its problems.

Four Persons Injured After Autos Collide

Four persons were hospitalized late Thursday afternoon following a near head-on collision on U.S. 2 and the River Road, about three miles east of Manistique. None of the four were reported to be seriously injured but did require treatment for cuts and bruises.

State police identified the four as Diane L. Boyd, 18, and Michael J. Boyd, 15, both of Westshore Dr., driver and passenger of one of the cars, and Boyd Briggs, 48, 211 N. Houghton Ave., driver of the second vehicle, and passenger Samuel Gesko, 46, Onaka, Minn., former city manager of Manistique.

Troopers said the Boyd vehicle was making a left hand turn from U.S. 2 onto the River Rd. and failed to see the approaching Briggs vehicle, westbound on U.S. 2. The cars collided as Miss Boyd was attempting her turn-off. The incident is still under investigation and no tickets have yet been issued.

An eight-passenger Cessna plane, enroute from Beaver Island to Wisconsin, made a forced landing in a field near Garden Wednesday afternoon with the pilot and his five children escaping injury. Some damage was reported to the plane's left wing and landing lights.

John Heitzel, 38, Winfield, Ill., told state police he decided to make an emergency landing in a field on the Lawrence Anderson farm in Garden Township at 5:50 p.m. because of bad visibility, wind and fog and loss of radio signal. Heitzle and his family returned to Illinois and left their plane here for repairs.

'No Cause For Action' Ruled In Court Suit

A Circuit Court jury deliberated for little more than an hour Wednesday and returned a verdict of "no cause for action" in Mrs. Charlene Gould's civil damage suit against John G. Konte, 208 N. Fifth St.

Mrs. Gould, 140 N. Fourth St., was seeking $175,000, in behalf of herself and seven children, in damages and expenses in connection with the death of her husband.

Konte was the driver of a car which struck and killed Gordon F. Gould, 40, on M-94 on Feb. 2, 1969. Gould was stopped in the middle of the road in his snowmachine when the accident occurred at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Gould's attorney, Robert Hansley of Escanaba, requested a jury poll after the verdict was announced which revealed an 11-1 decision. Voting against the award were Billie Doyle, foreman, Patricia Stapleton, Eula Ann Rosebush, Elsie Fleck, Mary Schubring, Audrey Newborn, Ellen Aldrich, Thomas L. McManus, Carl Lynts, Lawrence A. Anderson and Robert D. Smith. Maurice Cousineau was the lone juror in favor of the plaintiff's claims.

Offering testimony about the accident were State Police Trooper Robert J. Heikkla, Lansing; Chester Gould, Earl Sugden, Leo F. Gould, Joe Wood, Gerald Hase, Warren Contu, defendant Konte and his daughter, Judith Ann, and plaintiff Mrs. Charlene Gould. Depositions were read from Victor Schuetter and Howard Schwartz.

The jury was picked Monday and opening statements from attorneys Hansley and James Fitzharris, also of Escanaba and appearing for the defendant. Testimony was heard Tuesday and Wednesday with the jury leaving for deliberation at 2:43 Wednesday afternoon. Circuit Judge William F. Hood of Manistique presided during the trial.

During a special Circuit Court session last week, with visiting Judge Philip J. Glennie of Alpena presding, seven divorces were granted.

Man Electrocuted Near Muskegon

MUSKEGON (AP) — A construction worker was electrocuted Thursday while working in a drain pipe near Muskegon.

The victim was identified as James Hallauer, 31, of Norton Shores. He was dead on arrival at a Muskegon hospital.

Muskegon County Coroner James Apostle theorized that Hallauer died when a generator supplying electricity to a power tool short-circuited or when he dropped a power tool into water in the pipe.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Wednesday were Roy Schwichow, Delores Osmon, Michael Boyd, Sam Gesko, Virginia Adams, Boyd Briggs, Joyce Hamiel and James Bremer.

Discharged were Lori Chapin, James Downing, Randall Baker, Debbie Multhaupt and Dianne Inman.

Grant Received; Art Classes Set

A grant to the Manistique Art Club from the Michigan State Council for the Arts brings this area another artist-in-residence series of art classes which will be held Aug. 9-23 at the high school.

Miss Ellen Phelan, drawing and painting instructor at the Detroit Institute of Art, has been appointed by the State Council to conduct the local classes.

Miss Phelan studied at the San Francisco Art Institute prior to attending Wayne State University where she received both a bachelor and master degrees in art. She was employed by the Detroit Public Schools before joining the Art Institute faculty.

No previous art training is necessary for entry in the classes which will be held both afternoons and evenings for two weeks. Tuition for the entire course is $5. Registration blanks may be obtained from Mrs. Margaret Dixner at Dixner's Office Supply or by writing the Manistique Art Club, Box 100. Early registration is recommended.

All persons in the Manistique area and neighboring communities are invited to take part in the artist-in-residence course which will provide a rare opportunity for both beginning and more advanced artists. The courses are made possible by the support of the Michigan State Council for the Arts, the local club emphasized.

The Council was proposed by former Gov. George Romney and established by the Michigan legislature in 1966. It provides a wide variety of programs and services in the performing, visual and literary arts and is available to community groups and organizations throughout the state.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Q.—I use one of the rooms in our house as a part-time office. I have three metal filing cabinets. The green paint on them looks kind of seedy and I would like to repaint. Will an ordinary paint be all right or must these cabinets have some kind of special paint?

A.—Any paint specified for use on metal will do. But before you paint, clean the cabinets thoroughly with a mild detergent and warm water. You may discover, as a friend did recently, that the poor appearance of the cabinets was caused by dirt and grime rather than a deterioration of the paint. In any case, the washing should be undertaken even if it develops that painting is required.

Q.—I want to make a brick walkway in our backyard. I intended to lay them in a wet concrete base, but have been told that this can be done by using a dry mix. Can you tell me what the mixture is and how the job is done?

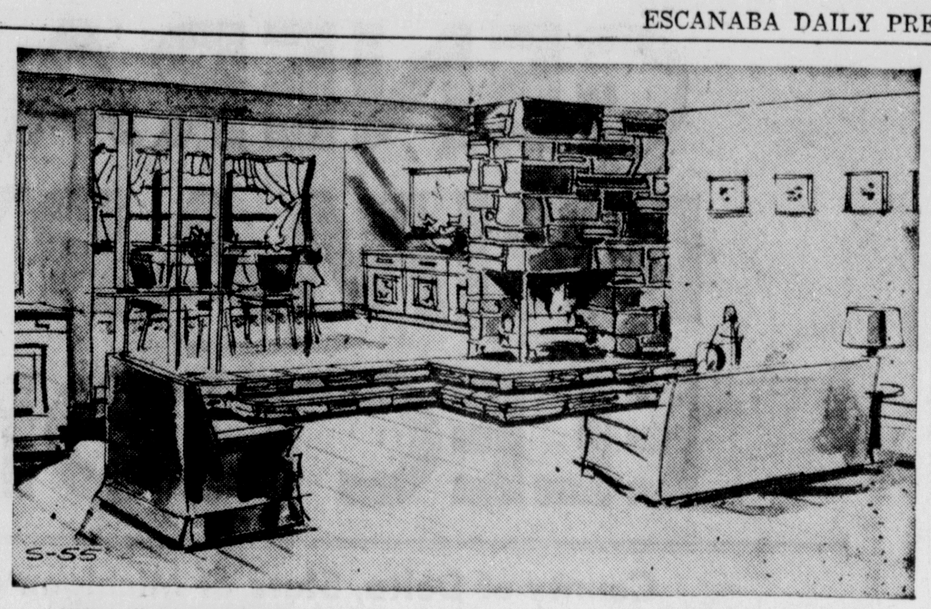

A.—Excellent results can be obtained with a dry mix UNLESS the soil is clay or does not drain properly. The dry mix is made from one part of portland cement to five parts of sand. After digging out the path for the bricks, apply the dry mix to a height of 2". Set the bricks into the dry base, standing them on edge and placing them about ½" apart. When the bricks are solidly in place, spread more dry mix into the joints. The easiest way to do this is to take a shovelful of the mix and throw it onto the bricks, then another shovelful in a different spot, and so on. When the entire pathway is covered, use a long-handled brush to spread the mix so that it falls into the joints.

Using a garden hose with a medium spray, wet the joints so that the mix settles down well below the surface. Apply more mix between the joints, then spray again. Repeat the procedure a third time. When the mix is well packed into the joints at the desired level, allow it to harden, then brush the excess from the tops of the bricks.

Q.—I intend to replace two window panes soon. After replacing the panes and puttying them, can the putty be painted the same day?

A.—It is better to wait several days before painting the putty. If you paint immediately, the paint may wrinkle or crack as the putty contracts.

VIEW FROM PORTION of sunken living room looking into the dining room, with distinctive fireplace also acting as a partial room divider. Dining room windows face rear.

FLOOR PLANS — The excellent zoning of the different living areas, typical of a split level floor arrangement, is given something extra here by the placement of the living room two steps below the dining room and kitchen, adding a dramatic touch.

TRIM SPLIT LEVEL makes good use of variety of exterior materials Three levels permit seven sizable rooms, 2 baths, a lavatory and a two-car garage to be packed neartly into a house that can be placed on a modest lot in almost any neighborhood.

Living Room Down 2 Steps

By ANDY LANG

Advocates of the split level give a variety of reasons why they are partial to this type of house design.

Seldom do they mention the original reason for the advent of the split level: its suitability for what is called rolling terrain, a kind of fancy term for a sloping lot. Builders soon discovered that many prospective home owners wanted split level houses constructed on flat ground because they like some of their advantages, among them the fact that they gave more livable space for less money than comparable ranches.

House of the Week Design S-55 is a transitional split; that is, it blends contemporary and traditional elements. Architect William G. Chirgotis has done a good job of providing an attractive exterior and a practical interior, with at least one bonus feature.

There are the usual first and second levels, with a recreation room on the lower garage level and a basement a few steps below that. The eye-catcher is a spacious living room, slightly sunken below the adjoining dining room and separated from it by, on one side, a tapered slat divider and, on the other, by a distinctive stone corner fireplace. Adding to the attractiveness of the room are a triple-window unit at the front of the house and a single side window meeting it at the corner.

The dining room looks out on the rear and is adjacent to an almost-square kitchen with sufficient space for a dinette set. The kitchen, by the way can be reached from the front foyer without going through any other rooms .

To the left of the living area, up a few steps, is the bedroom level, which has plenty of wall and closet space. The master bedroom has a private bath with glass-enclosed stall shower and two closets, one of which is a walk-in. The main bathroom is convenient to the two other bedrooms as well as the living section. It is compartmentalized with a full-wall mirrored vanity in the outer portion and a bathtub and water closet in the other.

On the lower level, a wood-paneled recreation room, lavatory and laundry room are located behind the two-car garage. The laundry is directly below the main bathroom, which means that its plumbing lines and those of the two upstairs bathrooms and kitchen are close together, an important factor in keeping down construction costs.

Because the exterior of a split is necessarily "broken," it can be made attractive without too much trouble. In this transitional design, the architect has effectively combined red cedar siding, vertical V-joint boarding, brick veneer, asphalt shingled roofing and a disciplined repetition of awning-type and fixed ribbon windows. It is the kind of house that will fit into any neighborhood.

S-55 STATISTICS

Design S-55 is a split level with a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, two bathrooms and a foyer on the first and second levels, totaling 1765 square feet. On the lower level are a recreation room, laundry, lavatory and two-car garage, which is entered from the front of the house. An inside garage door leads to the upper level steps and the stair to the basement. The over-all dimensions of the house are 56' by 35', figures that include the garage.

Sunday At Tiger Stadium

Al Kaline To Have His Day

DETROIT (AP) — The capacity crowd ovation pitcher Denny McLain got when he returned from suspension for the Detroit Tigers July 1 will probably be a murmur next to the ovation that is sure to jar Tiger Stadium Sunday.

That is when Al Kaline, Detroit's all-time great rightfielder, will be honored with a special "day" before what is certain to be a capacity crowd of about 54,000 persons.

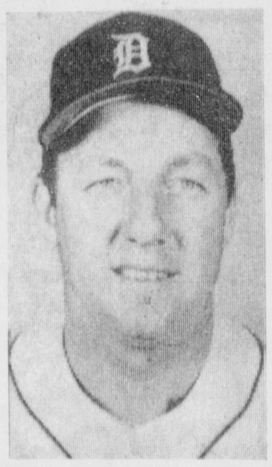

Kuhn Expected

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn -- who was not on hand for "Denny McLain day"-- has made it a point to be in town Sunday.

Michigan Gov. William Milliken was not at the stadium July 1 either – but he is supposed to be there for Al Kaline Day.

Not the flamboyant type like 26-year-old McLain, the 35-year-old Kaline has spent his 18 seasons with the Tigers making headlines on his baseball talents alone.

Today he still runs full speed to first base on a popup and never fails to give 100 per cent chasing a seemingly impossible foul fly. And when he does the fans cheer him with open hearts and bubbling respect, for he is their epitome of a "class" superstar.

Al Kaline

Lifetime Average .302

He has a .302 lifetime batting average and is having a good year now, batting .284 with 12 home runs and 49 runs-batted-in.

Kaline won the American League batting title as a 20-year-old, fuzzy-checked kid with a .340 mark in 1955. He is Detroit's all-time leading home run hitter with 347 and is among the Tigers all-time leaders in numerous other categories.

Also a fine fielder, Kaline last year was voted by Detroit fans to the All-Time Tiger team.

When asked during this year's spring training about Al Kaline Day he said modestly: "The people of Detroit certainly don't owe me anything and baseball doesn't owe me anything."

While some superstars in the major leagues have collected thousands of dollars worth of gifts at special days in their honor, Kaline won't.

The presentations Sunday, at Kaline's request, will be symbolic gifts of various kinds. He has requested that all cash donations be used for the purchase of baseball equipment for youngsters in the Detroit area, through the United Community Services.

First Since 1941

Sunday will be the first "day" for an active Tiger since 1941 and besides Kuhn and Milliken, a host of celebrities will be on hand, including Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs; Joseph Cronin, AL president; John Fetzer, president of the Tigers; and Lee A. Iacocca, vice-president of Ford Motor Co. who is chairman for the event.

Other noted sports figures will also be there, plus Kaline Fan Club representatives.

Mel Torme, performing currently at a local nightclub, will lead the crowd in singing "Thanks for the Memories."

Incidentally, the Tigers play Minnesota after the pregame affair, with Joe Niekro, 10-8, expected to pitch for Detroit against Bill Zepp or Dave Boswell.

Balliet Leading Publinx Classic

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Gary Balliet of Rochester, can thank the 16th hole of Bedford Valley Country Club's golf course if he wins his third straight championship in the Michigan Publinx Golf Tournament this year.

He shot a birdie on the 16th on both holes Thursday in winning two matches, 3 and 2.

Balliet downed Bill Curtis of Farmington, in the second round. Balliet termed him the toughest opponent he's faced in the tournament.

Also in the upper bracket, he edged Timo Kilpellinen of Farmington in the third or quarter-final round.

Balliet said the reason he is playing so well is that he is not as nervous as he used to be.

Semifinal competition was slated in both the lower and upper brackets today.

Tiger Tales

By The Associated Press

One of the Tigers' two disabled slugging outfielders is apparently ready to play.

Jim Northrup, sidelined with a pulled hamstring muscle in his left leg, has been out since last Friday. But in Thursday's 10-inning, 3-2 loss to Kansas City he hit a pinch hit single in the 10th.

Slugger Willie Horton is on the 21-day disabled list with an ankle injury.

"Maybe he'll start tomorrow," said Manager Mayo Smith of Northrup. "He said he was all right, that's why I let him pinch hit and didn't put a runner in for him when he got on base."

★ ★ ★

The Tigers are now 32-31 at home, 24-24 on the road, 26-25 versus the American League West Division and 30-20 against the East. Their 56-45 mark is identical as at this point last season, but then Detroit was 14 games behind Baltimore and now is "only" 6½.

'Cold Shoulder' Fails To Chill Play Of Frank Beard

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — If Frank Beard is getting a freeze from his fellow pros because of his controversial, revealing book on the golf tour, he's not letting it affect his sleep—or his game.

"No, I'm not sorry I wrote it," the bespectacled, 31-year-old author said today. "I think much of the book was miscontrued and some taken out of context.

"I don't consider it a kiss-and-tell type of book that invades the privacy of anybody. It's an honest report on the tour. I said we're not one big happy family — that we have our own habits and separate interests it's all true.

"If there's a villain in the book, it's me."

Beard, defending champion in the $250,000 Westchester Classic here this weekend, is off to a good start with an opening round 68, just a stroke off the pace set by Australian Bruce Crampton, Larry Hinson, Tommy Jacobs, Hugh Royer and Brian Barnes, all tied at 67.

His literacy efforts and the reaction haven't noticably upset the mild, business-like craftsman from Louisville.

"I've won $82,468 this year and I'm 12th in the money list," Beard said. "I can't complain too much about that."

Beard was the tour's leading money winner in 1969 with more than $175,000.

Beard's book, entitled "Pro—Frank Beard on the Golf Tour," written in collaboration with Dick Schaap, has stirred up some ripples in the tour ranks just as Jim Bouton's book on after-hours high jinx rocked baseball.

The rich Westchester, with its $50,000 first prize, was without some of its big names going into today's second round.

Lee Trevino, the leading money winner, overslept and, was disqualified. The 58-year-old Ben Hogan, his left knee swollen and throbbing, withdrew as did Canada's George Knudson. Orville Moody suffered a sprained left ankle and became doubtful.

Tied with Beard at 68 were the PGA champion Ray Floyd, Gene Litler, Jerry Mcgee, Mike Ballo and Fred Marti.

Nicklaus, Palmer and Player all shot 72, Bill Casper a 73.

Red Wings Open Season Oct. 10

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings will open their 1970-71 home National Hockey League season against the Oakland Seals Oct. 10.

General manager Sid Abel announced Thursday that the Wings will play 39 games at Olympia Stadium in Detroit, an increase of one over last year.

Fifteen homes games will be on Sunday, including two matinee games against the Toronto Maple Leafs Jan. 10 and March 28.

There will be 13 games on Thursday, with nine on Saturday, and one game each on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Red Wings meet the new NHL team from Vancouver on Thanksgiving, and the Chicago Blachawks on New Year's Eve.

All teams will make three appearances in Detroit this year. Last year, the East Division--of which Detroit is a member-made four visits each to the Motor City.

Mud Hens Take 2 From Rochester

TOLEDO (AP) — Toledo was scheduled to host Rochester today after the Mud Hens whipped Rochester twice Thursday, 5-0 in the first game and 9-8 in the second, 14-inning affair.

The loss for Rochester tumbled them from second to fourth place in the International Baseball League. Toledo, meanwhile, was in next to last place, 22½ games behind first-place Syracuse.

Vern Handrahan pitched a two-hitter for the Mud Hens in the first game here and got home run support from Arlo Brunsberg and Jim Deneff. Then his team tied it 8-8 with five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning of the nightcap before Paul Pavelo's first homer of the season won it for the Mud Hens in the 14th.

State OK's Drawing Plans For New NMU Fieldhouse

MARQUETTE — Approval by the State Bureau of the Budget for Northern Michigan University to proceed with schematic drawings for a new physical education instructional facility was announced Thursday by NMU President John X. Jamrich and State Rep. Dominic J. Jacobetti (D-108th District) of Negaunee.

Glenn S. Allen Jr., state budget director, advised the university that he has appointed the architectural firm of Ralph Calder and Associates, Detroit, to prepare schematic planning documents for the project.

NMU Pleased

"It is expected that the architect will work closely with the Building Division in the preparation of these plans, implementing the scope and function of this project as delineated and modified in the approved program statement," Allen said.

Dr. Jamrich expressed his pleasure with the announcement in stating that "this first step toward a new physical education instructional facility at Northern indicates our continued efforts toward providing the best education possible at this university.

"Through the combined efforts of Upper Peninsula representatives to our state government, the completion of this project will meet the needs of this university's health, physical education and recreation program for years to come."

Jacobetti said that "I am very happy to learn that the Governor's office has released the planning money and approved the hiring of an architect.

Began In 1965

"We passed the enabling legislation for construction of various building at centers of higher learning in 1965, and since then, I have worked with the legislature on behalf of the physical education facility at Northern.

"In the days ahead, I will continue to work with the legislature to get money needed to start the second phase of this project.

Under the present plans, the new facility, when completed, will be approximately twice as large as the Charles B. Hedgcock Health and Physical Education Building. It will house 11 assignable areas including an ice rink, aquatics area, handball and squash courts and classrooms and a laboratory.

Allen explained that "Northern will have a total of 185,984 net assignable square feet or 14.9 square feet per student available in the old and new physical education buildings.

After approval of the schematic plans, the next step would require an appropriation of construction funds by the Legislature.

To Retain Old Facility

Completion of the new physical education facility would not mean that the present building would be replaced. Rather, it would continue to serve the total needs of the physical education program.

The C. B. Hedgcock Fieldhouse, as this building has come to be known, houses a fieldhouse and natatorium in addition to a gymnasium.

With a seating capacity of more than 5,000, it is the largest indoor gathering site in Northern Michigan, and has become familiar to Upper Peninsula residents as the home of NMU athletic teams and as the site of high school championship basketball tournaments and indoor track meets, Jacobetti noted.

The building, which also houses offices for staff members, classrooms, locker and shower rooms and other facilities, was named in honor of Charles B. Hedgcock, who retired in 1956 after serving Northern for 34 years, including 11 years as coach of all NMU sports and 22 years as head basketball coach.

Softball Notes

Michigan Hotel will play a practice game Sunday at the Memorial Field beginning at 2 p.m. against Schaffer of the Tri-County League.

★ ★ ★

Due to the wet field conditions all games were postponed the last two nights and will be made up tonight and next week. The games on tap for tonight at Memorial Field will have Flat Rock vs. Goebel at 6:30, Trenary vs. Paper Mill at 8 p.m. and Jolly Roger vs. Independents at 9 p.m.

Cleveland Hurler Is AL Nightmare

By The Associated Press

Steve Hargan's pitching arm went to sleep earlier in the season but since his return from the minors two weeks ago, the rest of the American League has been having nightmares trying to hit the Cleveland Indians right-hander.

Thursday night, Hargan, a 6-foot-3, 180-pounder, made the Minnesota Twins his lastest victims, stopping them without a hit for 7 2-3 innings before winning 3-2 on a three-hitter.

In other AL games, Kansas City edged Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings, Milwaukee downed Washington 6-2, and Oakland nipped Boston 2-1.

Hargan, who had elbow surgery in 1968 and continued with his arm miseries in 1969, compiling a 5-14 mark, said he "felt great in spring training. But I didn't get much work. The lack of throwing hurt me and I lost everything I strived for in the spring."

The 27-year-old however didn't complain, although he admitted he wasn't happy. Then he pinched a nerve in his neck "which put my arm to sleep," Hargan said.

He was placed on the disabled list and then was sent to Wichita of the American Association for five weeks before his recall on July 16.

George Mitterwald, the Minnesota catcher, broke up Hargan's bid with a bloop single in the eighth. "He hit a good pitch, a slider, low and away," Hargan said.

Leo Cardenas followed with another hit, and a wild pitch and intentional walk followed before Brant Alyea poked a two-run single before Hargan got the last out.

The 27-year-old is now 4-0 since his recall with three complete games and has lowered his ERA to 2.34. He has given up only five runs and 12 hits in the four starts.

"Control has been the biggest thing," the big righty said. "My slider has been working real well and I'm letting them hit the ball. I'm throwing it where I want to instead of trying to throw it by them."

Vada Pinson crashed a solo homer in the seventh which proved to be the Indians' winning margin after Cleveland had scored twice in the third.

Bob Oliver's one-out, run-scoring 10th inning single gave the Royals their victory over Detroit.

Danny Walton triggered a two-run fifth inning Milwaukee rally with a single and double home another run in the sixth, helping the Brewers over the Senators.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter gained his 15th victory of the season but needed relief help from Jim Grant in the seventh when the Red Sox threatened.

Hunter, 15-8, left with one out and two on and a Boston run in before Grant notched his 18th save, got Carl Yastrzemsko on a fly ball and Tony Conigliaro on a foul pop' preserving the victory.

'Scoreless' Tie Exists As NFL Gridders Strike

By The Associated Press

A scoreless tie existed today in the pro football contract dispute after the veteran players put the owners on the offensive with a coffin-corner kick.

National Football League veterans, almost to a man, refused to report to training camp Thursday after the owners hung out the welcome sign.

It thus appeared to be the owners' move next.

"The situation is more critical than people think," said Wellington Mara, president of the New York Giants.

He said his team's scheduled exhibition with Green Bay Aug. 8 would probably be cancelled if the situation isn't settled by this weekend.

"If we lost the exhibition game," said Mara," we lost $1 million. That money will have to come out of the players' salaries in some ways."

When no veterans showed up at the Cincinnati Bengals' camp Thursday, General Manager Paul Brown closed shop. Apparently dismayed over the bitter, sometimes-volatile contract war, Brown said it could mean the end of the 1970 season.

"I will be in favor of tolling the season," said Brown, meaning to call it off. "It's a sad day, but we have no choice but to send the rookies home and abandon camp."

There were only 15 yearlings left in the Bengals' site in Wilmington, Ohio.

Another owner, who asked to remain anonymous, was more optimistic.

Not Enough Time

"I really don't think we're given them enough time," he said. "Twenty-four hours just wasn't enough time for most players to pack their bags and get to camp.

"I think you'll see their ranks beginning to break up Saturday because if they don't get to camp over the weekend they stand to miss a paycheck for the first exhibition games."

Apparently hoping to undermine the unity of the striking NFL Players Association, owners unlatched their training camp gates Thursday with the exhibition season only a week away.

Players Stick Together

There was little reaction. Less than a dozen vets showed up as the star-stubbed bulk of the NFLPA chose to stay together and stick it out despite the ominous warnings of "no season" from management.

The Joe Namaths, Fran Tarkentons and Roman Gabriels stayed home.

Phil Sobicinski, a virtual unknown free agent who played center for the Atlanta Falcons in 1968, showed up.

"I don't think I'm breaking the strike," said the 6-foot-2, 238-pound Sobicinski. "I'm just a candidate trying to play professional football. "I am fighting for my football life. I don't think my presence here will have any effect on the strike."

Chiefs Favored By 12 Over College All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — The 37th All-Star Football Game, glumly overshadowed by pro football's bitter labor impasse, will send the world champion Kansas City Chiefs as a 12-point favorite against the cream of the 1969 collegiate senior crop at Soldier Field Friday night.

An announced strike by the National Football Players Association Thursday in rebuttal to a take-it-or-leave-it move by club owners in a pension scrap cast a pall on the Chicago Tribune's Charity classic which will be televised nationally beginning at 9:30 p.m., EDT.

The owners Wednesday opened their camps to any veterans willing to report after breaking off contract talks Tuesday.

Chiefs Favorite

The Chiefs, who won all the pro marbles last Jan. 11 by crushing the Minnesota Vikings, 23-7, in the Super Bowl, have had only five full practice days due to the labor dispute which nearly resulted in cancellation of the All-Star Game.

But the oddsmakers figure that even with a minimum of preparation, the Chiefs are capable of handing the ex-collegians—most of them headed for pro careers—a seventh straight beating in a series now standing 25-9-2 in favor of the pro champs.

Coach Otto Graham, whose All-Stars recorded the last two collegiate victories in the past 14 years — over the Green Bay Packers in 1963 and the Detroit Lions in 1958 — also has been harrassed by the NFL dispute.

All-Stars Sympathize

Although practicing at Northwestern University since July 10, the All-Stars held a one-day mini-strike in sympathy with the NFL veterans on July 16, and failed to get in a customary game-type scrimmage planned with either the St. Louis Cardinals or Chicago Bears.

Graham will start Dennis Shaw of San Diego State at quarterback, hoping the nation's collegiate total offense leader of 1969, or Purdue's Mike Phipps can fire the All-Stars as Greg Cook of Cincinnati did last year against the New York Jets.

Oakland Hills Might Host PGA

DETROIT (AP) — Oakland Hills may be the site of the 1972 PGA championship, the Detroit Free Press said today.

The Free Press said Oakland Hills is conducting a mail vote among 562 stockholding members on whether to take on the championship.

The report said the club board is almost unanimous in its desire for the PGA tourney, which the Free Press said could bring the Birmingham club $250,000 in profit.

Manistique LL Team Opens Regional Play

The newly crowned Little League District Champions, the Manistique All Stars, will swing back into tournament competition today in the opening rounds of regional action at Iron Mountain against the Lake of the Clouds All Stars from Ontonagon at 4:00 p.m.

The tournament will open at 1:30 p.m. today when the host Iron Mountain takes on the Marquette All Stars. The winners of today's games will meet for the regional championship at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday.

Manistique, who last won the regional title in 1966, gained the tournament berth by defeating Munising in the first game of the district tournament last week 6-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Jeff Miller.

In the district final the Manistique All Stars rallied for eight runs in the seventh inning to upend the Menominee All Stars 9-1 behind the one-hit pitching performance of Jay Ketcik.

Manistique's opponent in todays game, Lake of the Clouds teams from Ontonagon, won the right to the tournament with a resounding 18-1 victory over Bessemer, then squeezed by the Ironwood Al Stars 2-1 for the district title.

The Ontonagon All Stars were paced to the district title, behind the outstanding pitching performance of Scott Weisinger, who limited Ironwood to one run on one hit, walked two and struck out fifteen batters and was also helped to victory by his team's fine defensive play, which included three double plays.

Coach Junior Tufnell's Little League All Stars that will most likely be starting the first game of the regional tournament include Jack Webber, Randy Lund, Richard Talman, Bob Masters, Bert Chandler, Jim Nelson, Steve White, John Ozanich, and pitchers Jeff Miller and Jay Ketcik.

Tigers Upended In 10th Inning By Royals, 3-2

DETROIT (AP)—Oh, for the chance to start from scratch against the Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Royals.

But it's too late for the Detroit Tigers to take advantage of those lowly West Division teams. They couldn't do it again Thursday night, falling 3-2 to Kansas City in 10 innings on Bob Oliver's run-scoring single off reliever Tom Timmerman.

The loss ended the 12-game season series against the second-from-last-place Royals and the Tigers could do no better than split at 6-6. The last-place White Sox also finished 6-6 against Detroit and that, according to manager Mayo Smith, is the reason the Tigers trail Baltimore.

McLain To Hurl

Baltimore was idle and the loss dropped second - place Detroit 6½ games behind in the American League East. Denny McLain, 2-2, was the Tiger probable pitcher tonight in the opener of a three-game series against tough Minnesota, which was expected to send young Bert Blyleven, 5-3, to the mound.

"That 6½ game lead is right there in those two clubs," Smith moaned, as he ate a slice of pizza in his clubhouse office.

Kansas City has lost 64 games and Chicago 68, with the White Sox trailing first-place Minnesota by 29½ games.

Wouldn't a team be waiting with open arms to face such clubs and expect to win most of the time?

Smith Comments

"You think that, but it doesn't always work out that way," Smith said with a wry smile.

Submarine - pitching reliever Ted Abernathy, 5-3, picked up the win—his second against Detroit in three days behind Oliver's bat. He won Tuesday night's game when the big Royals' first baseman slugged a two-run homer in the ninth inning of their 7-6 triumph.

Bob Johnson started Thursday for KC and hurled a strong game for 8 2-3 innings, scattering five hits.

Tough Luck Pitching

"We tried to pull him through because he hasn't won many games (3)," said Royals manager Bob Lemon. "He needed a win."

He said Johnson has pitched well all season but added: "I don't believe in tough luck pitchers. It's like somebody once said, 'It ain't how you pitch, it's when you pitch.' If your teammates don't get enough runs for you, you lose."

Cookie Rojas opened the Royals' 10th with a single off Timmerman, 3-3. Amos Otis sacrificed Rojas to second and after Lou Piniella was intentionally walked, Oliver rapped a ground single between short and third knocking in the winner.

Detroit had a 2-1 lead going into the seventh but Pat Kelly's run-scoring single after a pair of walks off starter Mike Kilkenny tied the game.

Norm Cash had put the Tigers in front in the fourth with a two-run homer, his 12th, after Gates Brown singled.

Kansas City scored in the top of the inning on a run-scoring single by Ellie Rodriguez.

Three Tri-County Teams Advance In Softball Tourney

Powers-Spalding, Bark River and Faithorn all advanced to semifinal rounds of the Tri-County Softball tournament, which will be held this weekend, with victories last Sunday in the opening rounds of the tourney.

Bark River, behind the one hit pitching performance of Bob Triest, defeated Schaffer 8-0 in the opener, while Powers-Spalding went nine innings before beating Perronville 3-2 in the second game.

In the Powers-Perronville game, Bill Anderson picked up the mound verdict with the help of a solid home run by Erv Page. Larry Wanic and Bob Mileski had homers for Perronville.

In the final tournament game last Sunday, Faithorn held off a late inning bid by Four Corners to emerge with a 3-1 victory.

The tourney will continue Saturday night with Powers-Spalding meeting Bark River and with the winner taking on Faithorn for the Tri-County Championship.

No-Hit Catcher Becomes Fencebuster For Dodgers

By The Associated Press

Jeff Torborg, who used to be a no-hit catcher in more ways than one, has shed his mask and revealed himself as a fencebuster.

Torborg, who caught Sandy Koufax' fourth no-hitter five years ago and handled Bill Singer's no-hit gem two weeks ago, poled his first home run since 1967 as Singer and the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Montreal 7-3 Thursday night.

Hits 3-Run Homer

The 28-year-old receiver, a .211 lifetime hitter, crashed a three-run homer in the fourth inning and blooped a run-scoring single in the seventh for the biggest offensive binge of his seven-year career with the Dodgers.

"After I hit that bloop single," he said, "my teammates said that I had moved their defense back after the homer and then tricked them by dropping one in."

Torborg's four-RBI night helped Singer breeze to his fifth consecutive victory for an 8-3 season mark. The hard-throwing right-hander, who bounced back from a spring hepatitis attack and fired a no - hitter against Philadelphia on July 20, checked the Expos on six hits and struck out 10.

In other National League games, Cincinnati downed Pittsburgh 8-4; St. Louis topped Atlanta 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs trimmed Houston 6-3.

Torborg keyed a four-run Los Angeles burst in the fourth with a shot over the left field fence off Dan McGinn after singles by Ted Sizemore and Bill Russell. It was his seventh major league homer.

"I remember the last one," said. "It was off Rich Nye in Chicago. Don Drysdale was pitching for us.

RBI's Set Record

"Four runs batted in is a game high for me. I've had three before, but never four."

The home run and single gave him 10 RBI for the year and boosted his batting average 10 points to .227. He has batted .161 and .185 in the past two seasons as a part-time catcher.

Johnny Bench clubbed his 35th homer—high in the majors—for two Cincinnati runs; Tony Perez drove in two more with a single and his 31st homer and Lee May cracked a two-run single as the Reds beat southpaw Bob Veale to remain 12 games ahead of the second place Dodgers in the NL West.

The loss trimmed the Pirates' East Division lead over the idle New York Mets to one-half game.

Lou Brock slammed two bases-empty homers and Joe Torre hit a third, leading the Cardinals past Atlanta. Rookie Jerry Reuss shut out the Braves until the ninth, when Clete Boyer kayoed him with a two-run homer.

Johnny Callison homered and Billy Williams drove in his 96th and 97th runs of the season with a single—surpassing by one his total run-production of 1969—as the Cubs pasted the Astros behind Ferguson Jenkins.

Overabundance Of Teachers Reported By State Board

LANSING (AP) — Michigan, long plagued by a shortage of teachers, now faces an overabundance that officials say may last for some time.

The State Board of Education Thursday issued what it called a "warning" about the oversupply of teachers, saying it was "entirely possible that several hundred spring and summer graduates will not find teaching positions for the 1970-71 school year."

The board attributed the expected surplus to:

—An expected peak in high school population by 1975, while elementary school populations already have peaked. This new supply-and-demand setting for teachers and school districts "will provide a change in conditions for teachers and employers," said board president Peter Oppewall of Grand Rapids.

—Increases in higher education enrollments with a corresponding increase in production of teachers.

Oppewall said more than 9,000 provisional elementary and secondary teacher certificates were recommended by Michigan teacher education institutions in 1965-66, while that total jumped to 12,706 for 1968-69.

—Improvement in teachers salaries, fringe benefits and working conditions, all of which tend to keep people in the teaching field.

—A large number of out-of-state teachers coming into Michigan.

"Records show 3,794 out-of-state teachers were attracted to Michigan in 1965-66," Oppewall reported, "while 4,872 were attracted in 1968-69."

Adding to the available teacher force have been the financial "squeezes" on local school districts, which have meant bringing some administrators back into the classrooms, he said.

Oppewall noted that there also seems to be a decline in nonteaching opportunities for prospective or former teachers.

A chance to be more elective in hiring practices, he said, has meant that some employers are placing a greater emphasis on grade point averages and the nature of the experience reports from an applicant's former employer or student teaching supervisors.

Oppewall said also that Michigan certification code changes have affected the oversupply of teachers.

"Several thousand persons have been employed in Michigan classrooms under the temporary permit provisions for long periods of time," he said. "The certification code, of course, requires that districts employ such persons only when certificated persons are not available.

"Therefore, a predictable competition occurs between persons with provisional or permanent certificates and persons who have been employed for various periods of time under the permit provisions."

Terry Herndon, executive secretary of the 75,000-member Michigan Education Association, says the teacher situation puts individual boards at "a competitive advantage this year."

"There is an enormous surplus in english and social studies," Herndon said, but, he added, "there are a few areas where a teacher can still be selective." He cited industrial arts.

He said men have an advantage in the elementary schools, women in the physical education field and any teacher in industrial arts.

"We make an effort to place members displaced," Herndon said. But for new graduates, he said, "there's little we can do for them."

TV Crew Shot At Near Home Base Of Militant Unit

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy Thursday ordered a beefed-up police patrol at an area near a black militant headquarters after a television crew said someone shot at them.

Max Wolf, 50, cameraman for WKBD-TV, Channel 50, in Detroit, said a shot "went about a foot from his head" when the crew arrived Thursday morning to photograph street signs repainted with the words "Panther" and "Free Red."

Don Howe, 29, a crew member, said that a "man with an Afro haircut and a rifle" was on the porch of the belonging to a group associated with the Black Panthers. The group is called the "National Committee to Combat Fascism."

In another incident Thursday, two Detroit policemen said they heard what they believed was a pistol shot when they arrived to photograph the repainted sign.

No one was injured in the incidents. No arrests have been reported.

Employers Pick Up Tab:

New Law To Boost Jobless Benefits

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Michigan employers will pick up the tab for extended jobless benefits that could soar to $50 million a year.

Gov. Milliken has signed the state's new unemployment compensation bill which hitchhikes on a federal bill still pending.

The timetable in Congress anticipates passage in August and an effective date in October. The Michigan law, using many of the federal provisions, will go into effect at that time.

"This measure . . . will extend benefits to more than 168,000 workers in Michigan in categories not presently covered," said Milliken.

"The bill also provides for an extended benefit period for some 62,000 unemployed workers who have already exhausted their present benefits.

Extends Benefits

"The need for them now is great and this new law will assist them significantly."

Based on July figures of a 7.7 per cent unemployment rate and a projection of benefit exhaustions, the Michigan Employment Security Commission estimates a $21 to $28 million cost for six months.

Benefit extensions would go into effect when either the national jobless rate exceeded 4.5 per cent for three months or when the state's rate for a 13-week period was 20 per cent higher than in the preceeding two years for the corresponding period.

The federal bill, which under the qualifying act signed by Milliken will become Michigan law, extends benefits to colleges and universities employes, to some private nonprofit organizations.

MESC officials said the big hangup in Washington now is Michigan Rep. James O'Hara's drive to bring agricultural workers under the umbrella.

Reserve Fund

Backers of the federal and state acts stress that the extra costs will be shared by the state and federal governments.

But the federal program will increase the tax on employers to build up a reserve fund and the state will make the adjustment through the employers' solvency account.

"Let's not be naive," said an MESC official. "Employers will pick up the tab."

George M. VanPeursem, head of the Michigan Manufacturers Association in Lansing, estimated the tax increase would be one-tenth of one percent. MESC officials declined to speculate on the rate.

"No individual employer is going to be badly hurt," VanPeursem said.

Employers Pay

Actually, he said, the extension of the 26-week benefit period to 39 weeks is a maximum. The law reads that employes will be eligible for an extra 50 per cent.

If an employee now has 20 weeks in the bank, he would under the new act get 10 more weeks, or 30.

The controversy in Lansing was the method of charging back the extra costs, whether to levy it against the employer who had the unemployment or against all employers generally.

It was resolved in favor of big industry where unemployment is more common during mass layoffs. When this happens now, all employers—regardless of their unemployment record—will pay the bill.

Thus, as VanPeursem says, all employers will be hurt equally, but none of them badly.

Idled By Strikes

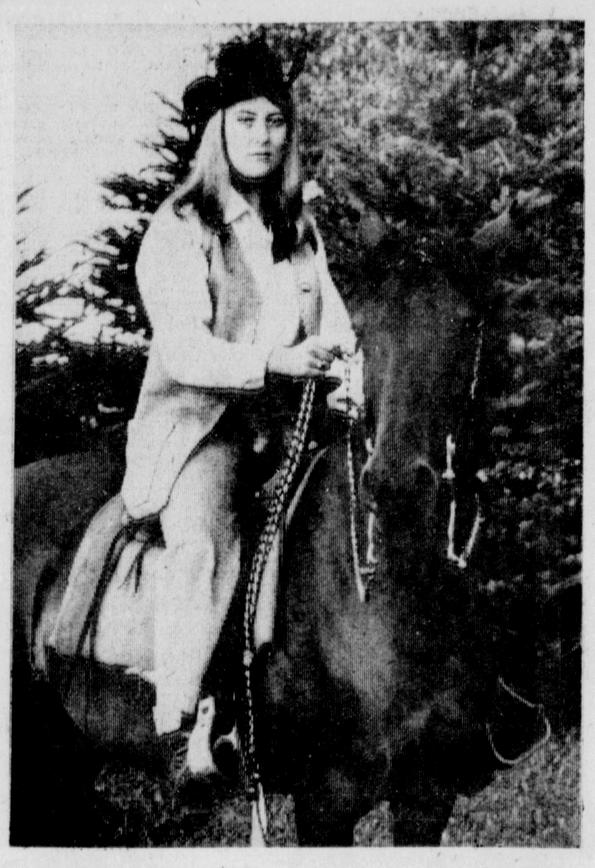

But it is a fact that the provisions of the Michigan Supreme Court's Ford-Canton decision will flow into the picture if their is a major automobile strike in Detroit this fall.

The decision held that employes in the separate factories of a struck company could collect benefits if they, themselves, were not involved in a strike.

If a strike in a parts plant in Saginaw deprived a production plant in Detroit of materials and caused layoffs, the Detroit workers would be eligible for unemployment benefits.

Milliken last week sent telegrams to Michigan's congressional delegation urging adoption of the federal act as "imperative." It has passed the House and needs Senate approval.

The governor's signature on the Michigan bill automatically will make the federal act operable in the state—a decision made prior to a resolution of the federal controversy over covering agricultural workers.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Everson of Escanaba Rte. 1, is a 1970 graduate of the Escanaba Area Public High School, and is employed as a secretary at Ellingsen-MacLean Oil Co. The winner will be announced Sunday afternoon. (Daily Press Photo)

Sharp Rise In Wholesale Index Surprising To Most

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The unexpectedly sharp rise in the wholesale price index for July was like a sudden summer shower on a day the weatherman had promised would be fair. A lot of people were caught with their umbrellas down.

A few days earlier, administration officials had pointed to a basketful of statistics that, they said, indicated the economy was returning to stability again, and that a less inflationary upturn could be expected soon.

Prices Still Climbing

If figures could throw cold water on opinions they would, but their mute testimony is devastating enough. In July, the Labor Department said, wholesale prices rose at a 6 per cent annual rate.

It was a slowdown in the increase of wholesale prices that had led the administration to be optimistic. For two months before July the rate of increase was only 2.4 per cent. And the worst seemed to have been reached way back in January. The sudden increase, therefore, was shocking.

Like Water Through Sponge

Generally speaking, wholesale prices work their way down through the economy like water through a sponge, being absorbed to some extent until they spill out over retail markets weeks and months later.

True, some of the present rise might be absorbed before it reaches the consumer, but don't bet on it. Business is complaining about lagging profits and isn't in a mood to take on added costs. Quite likely they'll pass them on.

One outside possibility still exists that the situation might not be really so bad as portrayed by the wholesale price index. That is, the fluctuation could be a fluke. Perhaps the index is inaccurate.

That, at least, is the belief of George Stigler of the University of Chicago, who co-authored with James Kindahl of the University of Massachusetts a book that is highly critical of the government's methods of compiling prices.

Stigler Confident

Says Stigler, "I am absolutely confident that there has been extensive price cutting during the slowdown of the past six to eight months; but these cuts have not showed up in the government's WPI."

In their book, "The Behavior of Industrial Prices," the authors contend that price cuts have been made right under the noses of researchers but have been ignored.

The WPI, for example, uses in its compilations the prices that sellers list in their catalogs, taking into account only standard discounts.

Discounts Help

Stigler and Kindahl contend that many buyers today are actually paying much less than listed prices because of special discounts, tie-in sales, introductionary offers, shipping concessions and so on.

Regardless of which is the more accurate measure, the WPI as compiled by the government, or the buyers' price index as proposed by Stigler and Kindahl, price action in the next few months is going to tell a big story.

If wholesale prices continue to rise then there is little possibility of consumer inflation being dramatically reduced in the next few months. It might take a lot longer than was originally anticipated.

UAW Employes Laid Off Due To Cash Crisis

DETROIT (AP) — Approximately 180 employes of the United Auto Workers Union got the sad word today that a cash crisis and income slowdown have cost them their jobs.

Thus they join some 100,000 former dues-paying UAW members from the automotive and aerospace industries on unemployment rolls. A profit squeeze and lagging sales are blamed for the industrial layoffs.

In addition to its layoffs, the UAW also ordered a cutback Thursday in travel and other expenditures to bring its general fund into balance.

The union has declined to disclose the general, operating fund deficit, but other sources have placed it as high as $4 million.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW president, said in announcing the cutbacks that the union's strike fund is intact and has a balance of $114 million and that the UAW's total resources are close to $139 million.

Woodcock said the UAW's international executive board had "found it necessary" to reduce its U.S. and Canadian staff of 980 international representatives by 125 and to lay off approximately 10 per cent of the union's 540 clerical and maintenance staffs.

Woodcock said the layoffs resulted from the union's reduced membership and income, adding that layoffs in the auto and aerospace industrids over the last six months approximate 100,000.

With an average monthly dues rate of $7, this would reduce local and international union incomes by $700,000 a month. The international treasury receives 60 per cent of the dues, with half earmarked for the general fund and half for the strike fund. Locals keep 40 per cent.

Benjamin H. Donaghy, Saginaw, pleaded guilty to possession of undersized fish and paid a $10 fine and $9 costs.

Ronald L. King, 18, 600 S. 13th St., pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages and was ordered to pay a $15 fine and $7.50 costs.

Norbert J. Young, 18, 332 N. 3rd St., Wells, was ordered to pay a $15 fine and $7.50 costs after he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. He was also ordered to pay costs of $8 after pleading guilty to a charge of improper use of registration plates and an additional $8 in costs on a charge of driving without an operator's license.

Civil Emergency Measure Vetoed By Gov. Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken announced today he has vetoed a bill that would allow cities, villages and townships to declare civil emergencies by executive order of their top officials.

The bill, introduced and sponsored more than a year ago by Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, specified a variety of situations such as impending riot or natural disaster, in which action could be taken for specific periods of time.

Former Gov. George Romney vetoed a similar, earlier version of the bill when it was introduced in 1968 in the wake of the 1967 Detroit riot.

Officers Elected To School Board

The Board of Education for the North Central Area Schools held their first organizational meeting Monday evening.

Newly appointed district Superintendent to the board, Dr. Berggren, was introduced followed by an election of officers for the coming year.

Officers elected were, Henry Folcik, president; Walter Petersen, secretary; John Lungerhausen, treasurer; Wayne Miller, Lester Johnson, Roger Stebbins, and Mrs. M. LaBumbard, trustees.

Among items discussed was a decision to schedule the regular board meetings for the third Thursday of each month, alternating the meeting location between Powers-Spalding and Hermansville every month.

Full Health Care Favored By Green

Nino Green, Democratic candidate for congress, last night declared his support of efforts to develop a national health insurance program to provide full health care for all Americans.

Speaking in Cheboygan at a dinner sponsored by supporters of Bob Lee, Democratic candidate for state senate, Green said: "All Americans must be provided with equal access to health care facilities. All of the services necessary for maintenance of personal health, for care and treatment of illness and for rehabilitation must be made available to all of our citizens."

Criticizing his Republican opponent, incumbent Congressman Philip E. Ruppe, Green said, "we cannot afford to support public officials who turn their backs upon our health needs."

He said Ruppe recently voted to reject a hospital program that has been in existence for 24 years and that has aided the construction of more than 9,000 hospitals.

In Michigan:

18-Year-Olds To Vote Unless Court Says No

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken says 18-year-olds will vote in Michigan next year, unless federal courts rule the U.S. statute authorizing a lower voting age unconstitutional.

Milliken's comment was included in a reply to U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who has asked the governors of all states to express their intentions on compliance with the new federal voting rights act, signed into law earlier this year by President Nixon.

The law bans use of literacy and similar tests for voters, residency requirements for those voting for President and Vice President and establishes the lower voting age.

Regarding the voting age, Milliken said, Michigan intends to comply with the federal act on its effective date, Jan. 1, 1971. "It has been declared unconustitutional by the federal courts."

"Eighteen-year-olds will be permitted to register on and after that date and vote in all subsequent national, state and local elections and our elections personnel will be so apprised," Milliken said.

Meanwhile, the State Legislature has before it a proposed amendment to the Michigan Constitution that would, if put on the ballot and approved by the people, lower the current 21-year voting age to 18.

The governor told Mitchell also that Michigan already is in compliance with the federal provisions regarding tests and residency requirements.

"There are currently no literacy or similar test requirements in Michigan, and persons who are unable to write are permitted to register by making a mark in lieu of a signature," Milliken said.

"The manual of instructions to persons handling election procedures further provides that illiterates are entitled to assitance, and for this purpose are placed in the same category as the handicapped."

Downtown Saigon Scene Of Bombing; Yankee Billet Hit

SAIGON (AP) — A bomb ripped through the ground floor of a U.S. enlisted men's billet in downtown Saigon tonight, causing extensive damage to the building and a half-dozen vehicles. First reports said there were no injuries.

American demolition experts said terrorists placed a 45-pound plastic charge adjacent to the 10-story Ky Son enlisted men's billet. About 400 Americans left the building and U.S. officers said all military men were accounted for.

The explosion hurled a large ball of flame into the sky and fire swept through the billet.

Some adjoining Vietnamese frame buildings also were damaged, along with a half dozen military vehicles parked near the billet.

Youths Arrested For Taking Beer

City Police arrested four youths early this morning in conection with a breaking and entering at the Central West Distributing Co., where 16 cases of ber were taken from a truck.

Officers said that two juveniles, both from Rte. 1 Bark River, broke a lock on the truck and took the beer. One of the juveniles was apprehended and put in the Delta County Jail and the other turned himself in at the police station this morning. Both youths have been charged with breaking and entering and will appear in juvenile court.

Things Still Popping In Cereal Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heavily fortified breakfast cereals proliferating on supermarket shelves would have to be removed under a revived government proposal.

Renewed action on the eight-year-old proposal follows nutrition crusader Robert B. Choate's Senate testimony last week describing most breakfast cereals as "calories and little else."

The Food and Drug Administration proposals for cereal enrichment would work on both ends of the spectrum—upgrading the content of the least nutritious while dealing a fatal blow to the nine cereals Choate described as nutritionally meritorious.

The proposal is in harmony with long-standing FDA policy of "restoration" rather than fortification, said agency attorney Robert N. Anderson, whose soon-to-be published findings of fact will set the stage for a hearing examiner's decision and presentation to the agency commissioner by fall for a final decision.

"Restoration" refers to adding to processed foods only as much nutrient as is found in the natural state but which might be removed by milling or processing.

"When you begin to play with the food supply for a large population, there has to be a careful monitoring when you set out to change what nature has done," said Anderson in an interview.

Present regulations ban fluoride, vitamin K and folic acid but restrict no other nutrients.

The proposed regulation—opposed by the food industry—would permit addition of only niacin, which wards off pellagra; thiamine, which combats berberi; riboflavin, which promotes healthy skin, and iron, which enriches the blood.

Speed Study For Ford River Area To Get Under Way

Republican Charles H. Varnum, Michigan State Representative, was recently advised by Paul A. Michelin, district traffic engineer, that a speed study through the Ford River community, as requested by Varnum, has been ordered.

Results of the study will help in determining the need for the passing of a resolution to prohibit fishing or swimming from the Ford River bridge, a resolution that is now under advisement by the Ford River Township Board.

An increasing number of traffic and pedestrian problems in this Delta County community has necessitated this study, Michelin said, and if the resolution is passed, necessary signs will be posted by the Dept. of State Highways.

Auto Output Hit By Model Changes

DETROIT (AP) — Model changeovers kept most auto plant assembly lines inactive, as only 28,879 new passenger cars were built in the nation this week.

This compared with 57,045 new cars completed last week, and 27,893 manufactured in the same week a year ago, reported the trade publication Automotive News.

So far this year, 4,408,031 new cars were built domestically, compared to 4,959,957 for the same period a year ago.
